AMID OLD DUTCH HOMESTEADS

You May Find Plenty of Them Right Within the Limits of Greater New York by Following the Road Through Flatbush and Flatlands.

The Old Lefferts House on Flatbush Avenue

The Old Bergen Homestead near Bergen Beach

The Old Dutch Church of Flatlands, Organized 260 years ago

By Sarah Comstock.

TAP at an old Dutch door, with its brass knocker, and the upper half will open cautiously until you, as a stranger, are appraised. It's up to you whether the lower half opens and lets you in.

Your getting in depends upon your own powers of imagination. If you see before you merely a dilapidated building, then you may as well take your leave at once. But if the very rat-tat of the old knocker conjures up to your mind a buxom brass-polishing Dutch matron; if the sight of twenty small panes in a window suggests to you a rosy, cap-framed Dutch face peeping forth; if you think at once of sand-strewn floors and shining pewter and corded bedsteads and hairy trunks and hand-spun linen and knit worsted stockings and Bibles dangling at round belts—then the door of the past will swing wide to you, and you're a candidate for the "Old Dutch" trip.

It lies within our very city limits, our own Greater New York. Just across on Long Island is a chain of landmarks which link, within a few miles, some of the most precious traditions of our early Holland residents. Here the thrifty families settled, took land, planted, cultivated, prospered. They built substantially, according to the way of their time, and many of the houses stand today almost as they were in days long before the Revolution shook our country. The churches, too, are standing; and in their quiet yards these old settlers lie sleeping.

Over the yellowed surface of an old map I traced the other day a road that led from Brooklyn—the Brooklyn of another century—somewhat east of south toward the beach. It passed through Flatbush and Flatlands; just below the latter it forked, and several times of the fork pointed to Jamaica Bay. Along the road were homesteads marked as villages are on modern maps. "J. Lefferts," "J. Cortelyou," "G. Vanderveers," and "J. Johnson" were among the sturdy old names.

And then, having traced it with the point of a pencil, I set out to trace it as nearly as possible by the aid of a trolley. You can sketch it in a mere afternoon. Take a day to do it and you will come home steeped in old Dutch reminiscence.

The Brooklyn Subway to Atlantic Avenue delivers you at a spot where Flatbush Avenue trolley will pick you up. That is your route in a nutshell. As often as you leave this car to inspect an old building you can return to it and let it carry you on to its east transfer you to a Bergen Beach car, and carry you back the same way.

As you pass the closely built business part of Brooklyn and emerge into the roomier residential district you will catch glimpses of old types of houses here and there along Flatbush Avenue. At last, at the left, looms a fine old specimen, gray, well ordered, shaded by old trees, and flanked by a beautiful lawn. Its roof has the fine, curving sweep so seldom seen nowadays, and so full of grace; at each end rises a chimney, and three dormer windows peep forth over the low porch.

This No. 563 on the avenue, is the old Lefferts homestead of pre-Revolutionary period—that is, the original house was built before the war, burned during its storm and stress, and rebuilt, on the same spot, an identical copy, soon after. Pieter Lefferts, that stalwart and esteemed old settler, was the inhabitant then, and the house has remained in the family ever since.

There is a tradition that the huge old barn now standing a little way back of the dwelling used to harbor slaves in days when slaves were a matter of course. The little eagle over the front door is a much-prized heirloom.

The perfection of detail—broad hall, spindle banisters, staircase landing, and so on—once tempted a moving-picture company to make a bold dash and invade the place when the owner was away, and the caretaker tells now, with palpitations, of the struggle with which she resisted their determined onslaught. We can sympathize with them; what a background that splendid old hall would be! Hoopskirts, soldiers dashing up the white staircase, hands wrung, prisoners seized—it was a pity to lose it all! But apparently the poor little caretaker thought that Revolutionary invasions had returned to the old house.

From here you can walk on a short distance and you will come to the church—or at least its lineal descendant—of the early Dutch settlers in this town. The first church in Flatbush was built upon this site by order of Gov. Peter Stuyvesant in 1654, and three churches have occupied the ground. The second was built in 1698, and the present in 1798, so it is almost as old as the Revolution. Its tablet informs you that "the emblem of the Reformed Dutch Church of America consists of the coat of arms of William of Orange combined with the ecclesiastical symbols, the pillars and stars."

Behind the church you will find many a crumbling old red stone half hidden by the more pretentious gray and white monuments of recent years, and the old names in ancient lettering can be spelled. Most of the early inscriptions are in the Dutch language; such words as "Vrou" and "Hier licht begraven" often catch the eye. Several Leffertses lie here; "Sarah Van Der Bilt," "Rem Vanderbelt," are found. One stone is "In memory of Phebe Vorrities," the affectionate wife of Peter I. Cortelyou," and her epitaph can be traced:

Here lies a friend bereaved of life,
A pious mother, a loving wife.

Continuing along Flatbush Avenue, either afoot or a-trolley, one comes upon several old homes still in fair or even excellent preservation. A very full list of these is to be found in the "Historical Guide to the City of New York," which Frank Bergen Kelley has compiled under the auspices of the City Historical Club of New York. This handy volume gives locations and means of reaching every spot most concisely.

For one, there is the old house at the corner of Avenue J. It stands a bit back from the street and is picturesquely smothered in green. The country here is open enough to give a suggestion of the days when this, like the rest, was a more or less isolated farmhouse, surrounded by fertile acres which Dutch diligence tilled. Practically all of these ancient dwellings were built according to Dutch ideas of architecture, and they were surrounded by farming land. Other representative homes of this period were the Henry S. Ditmas house at what is now the corner of Ditmas and Flatbush Avenues and known for its fine example of an old Dutch door; the Lott house (there were several Lotts) at 1,064 Flatbush Avenue, and the Vanderbilt house at 610, with its Dutch oven in the cellar, now demolished.

The same car bears you on into Flatlands. Building has been so busy in these modern years that you don't notice boundary lines. Suddenly, to your left, you spy a shining white tower, rising as peaked and as snow white as the toy church steeples of your childhood's play. Around it the little pointed lawn is so green, all the paint is so gleaming, that the whole effect suggests something rather unreal, like a little imaginary Scotland Town, that dozes aloof from this grimy, dusty, smoky world.

It is the old Reformed Dutch Church of Flatlands, the most delightfully picturesque link in all this chain of Long Island tradition. The dapper little meeting houses of New England are not more trim and prim, the old gravestones not more fascinating in their quaint inscriptions. The church stands on the King's Highway (which, by the way, has its own history) at East Fortieth Street; leave the car at the former street and walk only a block or so to the left.

It seems a bit hard that "Sarah Spong, d. 1830, Aged 81," should have been followed to the grave by such a sentiment as this:

How lov'd how valu'd once avails the not
To whom related or by whom begot.
A heap of dust alone remains of thee,
'Tis all thou art and all the proud shall be.

A sorry specimen of the religious brutality of a past generation! A gentler reflection on death is embodied in the quaint epitaph of "Wilhelmina, daughter of Nicholas and Alette Schenck, 1816, 21 years":

Here Wilhelmina's ashes lay,
The grave receives her precious clay.
But angels waft her soul on high,
All hail her Savior in the sky.

Here as in the Flatbush churchyard, the oldest inscriptions are largely in the Dutch language. This church was organized on Feb. 9, 1654, when this region was thoroughly under the influence of Holland.

A little way beyond you can transfer to the Bergen Beach car. Even upon this district, where the merry-go-round now merries and the icecream cone vender vends and the motor boat motes, you will find the dignified hand of history laid.

The ancient Mill house standing near the beach is one of the oldest to be found anywhere about. Leave the car not far from the trolley terminus, where the track turns to run parallel to the beach, and you can easily walk to the house. Here stood an ancient mill known through all the country round.

The settlement that grew up in this vicinity was a thriving one, and several types of the old houses remain. Two of these are several blocks back from the beach; the name Williamson is connected with them. One, still little changed in outer appearance, has a complete modern equipment of hot and cold running water: happy combination of past and present.

But of all the famous old houses in this part of Long Island none is better known than the Bergen homestead. There is a charm about its lonely situation, its old trees and gray shingled walls, that draws many a landmark lover to it. The trolley conductor will deposit you at a corner only a short walk from its back door.

We found the present resident sitting on its broad lawn under the shade of one of the old trees.

"What do you know about the place?" we asked him.

"That I can't drive a nail nor a screw into these old hand-made shingles," he chuckled. "I've tried it an' tried it, and they're hard as bricks. They don't make singles of that kind o' wood nowadays. Nor build that way nowadays. That house was built to last, I know that much about it."

He settled down comfortably for a chat.

"There isn't much telling just when the beginning of this house was," he went on. "They say that"—pointing to the western portion of the building—"was a kind o' cabin belonging to a hunter in early days—some fellow that hunted and trapped hereabouts, selling skins and making his living that way. That was before farming came to be the business of the community. Then Bergen came along, they say, and liked the situation, and he bought the land—all this land"—with a vast sweep of the hand that appeared to take in not only Long Island but the main land of the Atlantic Coast as well—"cabin and all, and since it was a solid enough kind o' building, though small, he built on to it, till there was a good-sized house. It belonged in the Bergen family till Williams bought Bergen Beach. How long ago was that? Oh, maybe twenty years."

The accepted date of the house is pre-Revolutionary, and it is said that in 1791 John Bergen came into possession of this beach, and enlarged the house to meet his growing demands. Some of its treasures, such as the old Dutch knocker, have melted away, but the tiny-paned windows remain, a flawless relic of the old days.

Rufus Rockwell Wilson, in his "Historic Long Island," gives a graphic picture of the early homes of these excellent citizens. "The first houses built on the island were, as a rule, of stone," he tells us, "lighted by narrow windows and protected against Indian marauders by strong palisades. Snugness, economy, and safety were the ends kept in mind by their builders." The palisades girt the houses about and disappeared as the need for them likewise disappeared. But the main points of this architecture can be traced in nearly all the examples now standing—the long, low form, usually one and a half stories in height; the roof sometimes pierced by dormer windows; in other cases, a long, unbroken descent from the ridgepole. As a rule, the first thing the modern rebuilder does is to insert the dormers.

One by one the links in this old chain of Dutch homes are vanishing. How many of them will the next generation see?

NEWS OF RESORTS FROM FAR AND NEAR AT BAR HARBOR.

All Sorts of Amusements for Summer Guests at Famous Resort.

Special to The New York Times.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 15.

THIS has been a week of gayety for Bar Harbor, with every sort of amusement that society could devise. From Monday evening, when Mrs. Warner M. Leeds gave her large costume ball, postponed from Friday of last week, on account of the death of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, until the last event Saturday night, the week has had plenty with which to keep society busy.

The men's doubles in tennis have been played off for the championship, and the annual hospital entertainment was a success.

The presence of the German liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, guarded by two United States vessels, a torpedo boat destroyer, and a revenue cutter, has lent a warlike flavor to Bar Harbor.

On Friday evening the annual amateur performance for the benefit of the Bar Harbor Hospital was held. This took the form of a cabaret show, and was under the direction of Miss Susette Sturges, who so successfully carried out last year's performance. Some notable members of the Summer colony took part. Miss Sturges showed herself a very capable director.

The Swimming Club has recently chosen a new Tennis Committee to have charge of tennis affairs. This is composed of Dr. Percy Musgrave of Washington, Gouverneur Morris of New York, Howard Sturges of Providence, and Whitney Wright and Edgar Scott of Philadelphia.

Most brilliant of all the affairs of the week was the costume ball, designed to represent life at the bottom of the sea, given by Mr. and Mrs. Warner M. Leeds on Monday evening. Prior to the dancing Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer entertained at dinner at Chatwold, the guests going later to the dance. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Warner M. Leeds, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Y. Stewart, the Hon. and Mrs. Alfred Anson, Mr. and Mrs. Auchincloss, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Chew, Mr. and Mrs. William Lawrence Green, Mrs. Eben Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. F. Ekesaryes, Dr. and Mrs. John S. Thatcher, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Armour D. Saunderson, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hennan Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Gouverneur Morris, Mr. and Mrs. McVickar, Campbell Steward, the Misses Steward, Howard Emmett, Jr., Miss Lisa Suydam, Miss Louise Iselin, Miss Catherine R. Porter, Miss Sturges, Mrs. Howard Sturges, Miss Susette Sturges, Miss Eleanor Lawrence, Charles Gibson, Charles Richardson, Mr. Moffatt, Miss Maud V. R. Kennedy and Mr. Winston.

Among other entertainers were Mrs. Sheffield Phelps, who had a party of nine at luncheon; Miss Christine Baker, who had a party of nine; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Howard, who had a dinner of sixteen covers, and Dr. and Mrs. John S. Thatcher, who had a dinner party of nine guests.

Richard Harte, Jr., of Philadelphia, successfully defended his title of tennis champion in men's singles during the week, and won the finals from Edgar Scott, the last year's opponents in the same match, rather easily. This week the men's doubles for the State championship have been under way, and next week the mixed doubles will be played. Whitney Wright and Newell Tilton were among the dinner givers Saturday evening at the Swimming Club before the weekly hop.

Mrs. John R. Suydam of New York gave a luncheon at the Pot and Kettle Club Friday afternoon.

Monday saw the annual aquatic sports which have been held at the Swimming Club for several years. The programme contained many of the old features and a number of new ones, and had some lively competitions in the various events. The annual relay race between Northeast Harbor and Bar Harbor formed as usual the climax of the contest. The Northeast Harbor team, composed of E. Coxe, C. Masters, D. Watson, and Frank Thayer, defeated the Bar Harbor swimming team, made up of Whitney Wright, W. R. Allison, C. Emery, and L. H. McCagg, Jr., while a team of Bar Harbor girls, made up of the Misses Anita Pratt, Ruth Sturgis, Elizabeth Wright, and Helen Moffatt, defeated a Northeast Harbor team, composed of the Misses Margaret Allen, Penelope Pasiman, Eleanor Carey, and Mary Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Price Wetherill of Grindstone Neck entertained at luncheon Thursday at the Swimming Club.

Miss Louise M. Iselin of New York is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Steward at their cottage.

Mr. Marcus A. Hanna entertained at dinner Friday night, the guests including Dr. E. R. Dunham, Miss Theodora Dunham, Miss Claudia Phelps, Miss Helen Tower, Harry Cushman, Miss Gerda Tower, Ernest Mitchell, H. Morgan Grinnell, Walter K. Shaw, Draper Lewis, and Miss Alice Thorndike.

Mrs. Sheffield Phelps entertained at dinner Wednesday night, the guests including Mr. and Mrs. Warner Leeds, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brewster McDonald, Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, Sr., Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ketteringus, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wellman, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Chapman, Miss Margaret Mackay, Miss Frederick Van Rensselaer, Miss Claire Van Lennep, Charles Richardson, Howard Taylor, Etienne de Marsowski, Miss Katherine Force, Dr. and Mrs. James H. Mitchell, Dr. Hotchkiss, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. Leeds, Mr. and Mrs. Stanfield Phelps, who had a party of nine at luncheon; Miss Christine Baker, who had a party of nine; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Howard, who had a dinner of sixteen covers, and Dr. and Mrs. John S. Thatcher, who had a dinner party of nine guests.

The second in the series of concerts given by the Schroeder trio took place Wednesday at the Summer home of Mrs. Robert Abbe. Among the guests were Mrs. Nicholas L. Anderson, Mrs. F. Fremont-Smith, Mrs. Armour D. Saunderson, Mrs. Oliver J. Wells, Mrs. Robert Abbe, Mrs. Dave Hennan Morris, Mrs. Sheffield Phelps, Mrs. Benjamin Crabbe, Mrs. Edgar Scott, Mrs. Winthrop P. Draper, Mrs. Walter G. Leds, Mrs. R. Hall McCormick, Mrs. Warner M. Leeds, Mrs. Burton Harrison, Miss Cottenet, Miss Celestine Eustis, Miss Christine V. Baker.

Mrs. Winthrop P. Draper entertained at dinner Friday evening at her home on Kebo Street.

Harold Randolph of Baltimore gave a largely attended informal dance at his Summer cottage at Northeast Harbor Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Newbold Edgar, who have been spending the first of the Summer at Bar Harbor, have left for Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Mostellan, who have been spending the early Summer with friends at Mount Desert, have left for Newport, where they will spend the remainder of the season at the Casino.

UNIVERSALISTS MEET.

Many Attend Annual Reunion at Good Luck, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

LANOKA, N. J., Aug. 15.—The annual gathering of Universalists from all parts of the United States is underway, and it is expected that 800 leading members of that denomination will be at Good Luck, which is the name that has been given to the birthplace of Universalism.

Good Luck is the mecca to which many Universalists aim to make a pilgrimage at least once each year. The largest assemblage takes place during the latter half of August, when the large hotel and boarding houses conducted by the Universalists are filled to capacity.

This year an unusually elaborate programme of events has been arranged in honor of the restoration and rededication of the home of Thomas Potter, the founder of Universalism. The exercises will begin tomorrow and continue daily until Sept. 1.

The historical address will be delivered by the Rev. E. G. Mason, D. D. A poem, written for the occasion by Dr. Henry N. Dodge, will be read by the Rev. E. A. Bisbee, D. D.

The Potter mansion, since its transfer to the directing body of the Universalist Church, has been turned into a museum, and contains one of the most interesting religious and historical collections in this country.

AUGUST IN ASHEVILLE.

Series of Dances Ushers In Gayest Month of Season There.

Special to The New York Times.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 15.—August, the gayest month of the Summer season here, was ushered in with a series of dances. One of the most delightful of these was given at the Asheville Country Club, in honor of the army officers and their wives, who leave next week for Fort Myer and other posts.

The guests included Capt. Preston Brown, who is in command of the students' training camp; Mrs. Brown, Capt. Clarence Day, commanding Troop K of the Fifth Cavalry from Fort Myer; Mrs. Day, Capt. Clemens McMillan of the Army Medical Corps, Mrs. McMillan, Capt. Lewis D. Green, Lieuts. Burdette, Joseph Ware, and A. L. James.

The First Coast Artillery Band from Charleston furnished music. Among the patronesses were Mrs. F. L. Seely, Mrs. Junius G. Adams, Mrs. Charles Jordon, Mrs. Thomas Settle, Mrs. Thomas Raoul, Mrs. Cheeseborough, Mrs. Vance Brown, Mrs. Frederick Rutledge, and Mrs. T. C. Coke.

The review of troops and the "monkey drill" by Troop K of the Fifth Cavalry, under the command of Capt. Clarence R. Day, on Tuesday evening at Riverside Park, was another military affair of interest this week. The troops were received by Gen. De Vault, U. S. A., retired, who, with Mrs. De Vault, has recently joined the army colony spending the Summer in Asheville. Lieut. Col. Terrett, U. S. A., retired, and Mrs. Terrett are also arrivals of the week in army circles.

Mountain climbing is popular here. Several parties have motored to the top of Pisgah over the Vanderbilt motor road.

A handicap tennis tournament on the courts of the Country Club has given zest to the tennis playing of the week. A men's handicap golf tournament of two days' duration was another sporting event.

Masked Ball at Long Lake.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG LAKE, Me., Aug. 15.—Visitors here organized a masquerade ball on the evening of Aug. 8, the costumes being exceptionally good. Young women represented clowns, convicts, caddies, nuns, Pierrots, and harem girls. One costume made up of newspapers received a prize for originality. Miss Ruth Benedict, attired as an artist, won honorable mention.

Visitors are also enjoying moonlight swims.

Dancing on the beach at Block Island.

SARANAC FLOWER SHOW.

All in Readiness for Big Event to be Held Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 15.—The annual Flower Show and Adirondack Fair, to be held here on Aug. 27, promises to surpass all expectations. Already thirty cash prizes have been offered by members of the Summer colony here. Among the donors are: Mrs. Joseph Longworth Nichols, Mrs. George V. W. Duryee, Mrs. Peter Sauzenthaler, Mrs. W. H. Haase, Mrs. Julie Rowell, Mrs. Charles M. Palmer, Mrs. A. W. Stanley, Mrs. Walter H. Chesit, Mrs. Mary Coutant Young, Mrs. Hugh M. Kinghorn, Dr. Lawrason Brown, J. Benson Marvin, Dr. C. W. Norton, Allen Untermeyer, and Charles J. Swahn.

The new features, for which special prizes have been offered, include mounted animals, mounted fish, Adirondack furs, fly-casting, bait-casting, woodcraft, amateur photographs of Adirondack subjects, edible fungi, and novelties in fruits and vegetables.

Dr. Joseph Longworth Nichols is treasurer, and the judges are: Of flowers and vegetables, F. E. S. Horton, C. M. Palmer, the Rev. Walter H. Larom, and K. W. Goldthwaite; sports, fish and game exhibits, Charles H. Swain, Isaiah Vosburgh, Dr. W. B. Kendall, John Morgan, William B. Trowbridge, and J. Howard Demorest.

The annual Summer fair for the benefit of St. Luke's Episcopal Church was held on the church lawn at the Chapman residence on Thursday afternoon. Chairmen of the various booths and tables were: Mrs. Julia E. Howell, Mrs. E. T. Coleman, Mrs. A. Paige Watson, Mrs. M. E. Bogle, Miss Gravenstein, Mrs. Fred Tremble, Mrs. J. L. Nichols, Miss Tindale, and Mrs. C. M. Palmer.

An auction bridge and plain whist party will be given at Henderson Memorial Gymnasium of the Boys' Club building next Saturday evening, Aug. 20 for the benefit of the Sisters of Mercy Sanitarium on Ampersand Avenue. The patronesses of the affair are: Mrs. E. R. Baldwin, Mrs. Robert M. Brewer, Mrs. Edward H. Kennedy, Mrs. William Mulflin, Mrs. Addie K. Botsford, Mrs. J. C. Russell, Mrs. Julia E. Howell, Mrs. Charles Trembley, Mrs. Joseph Longworth Nichols, Mrs. William B. Trowbridge, Mrs. C. F. Wicker, Mrs. E. H. McKee, Mrs. Kenneth Goldthwaite, Mrs. Mary Loomer, Mrs. John C. Morgan, Mrs. William Wilson, Mrs. W. C. Leonard, Mrs. C. L. Sherrill, Mrs. Fred Tremble, Mrs. George L. Clarke, Mrs. Fred E. Hull, Mrs. F. H. Hallock, Mrs. W. F. Roberts, Mrs. D. W. Riddle, Mrs. Eugene De La Mater, Mrs. W. J. Callanan, and the Misses Werle, Schneiderwind, Mulcahy, and Hasenfuss.

Firemen's Ball at Bay Head.

Special to The New York Times.

BAY HEAD, Aug. 15.—Arrangements for the Bay Head Firemen's ball next Friday night have been completed, and indications point to a big night for the firemen, who are being assisted in the arrangements by a number of the prominent cottagers here. The committee consists of Frank Ferry, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Metcalfe, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Voorhees, Mr. and Mrs. A. Brower, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Wyckoff M. Applegate, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Worth, and Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Studniford. The ball will take place in the Borough Hall.

Tennis lovers are interested in the approaching New Jersey coast matches, which are to take place beginning Sept. 3. Men's singles and men's doubles will be played, and the winner of the singles will be called upon to play G. C. Burgwin, Jr., present holder of the Bay Head Cup, the Tournament Committee including Robert H. Metcalfe, H. L. Wilson, Joseph Rowland, and H. Lovell

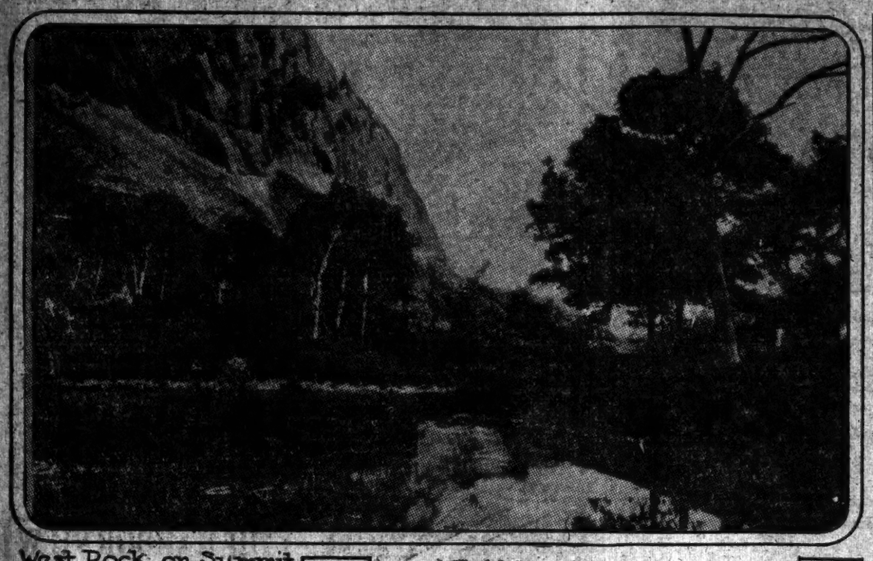
THIS WEEK MARKS ZENITH OF SEASON AT GAY SUMMER CENTRES



West Rock, on Summit of Which is Judges' Cave

Historic Judges' Cave, Near New Haven, Is a Good Goal for Motorists.

WITHIN easy motoring distance of New York is historic old New Haven, Conn., with its elm-lined boulevards and interesting suburbs. Just west of the centre of the town and starting at a common point are three roads—Goffe Street, Whalley Avenue, and Dixwell Avenue. They all lead to West Rock, a bluff on the western edge of the city, the last of the foothills of the Litchfield Hills. On West Rock is a cluster of boulders called Judges' Cave, where, history says, the three "regicides," Goffe, Whalley, and Dixwell, hid after the publishing of the King's proclamation in 1661.

These three Judges were the ones who condemned Charles I. to death. On the restoration of Charles II. to the throne, they fled to this country to save their lives. They arrived in Boston in 1660, and went to live at first in Cambridge. But, finding it unsafe there, they left for New Haven.

There they were treated well for a time, but soon it became known that there was a search in progress for them. So they fled again, leaving town by the three streets which now bear their names.

They arrived at the foot of West Rock late at night. At one time the searching party was so near them after they were reunited at the foot of West Rock that they were obliged to hide in a brook. They waded in up to their necks and stood on tiptoe under the bridge while the posse passed over their heads. The bridge is now called Neck Bridge.

After the searchers had returned to town, the three refugees climbed the bluff and found the cave on the top of it. It commanded a view of all approaches to their hiding place and New Haven Harbor in the distance. They settled down to stay in the cave for some days.

One Richard Sperry, living about a mile from the cave, supplied them with food during their stay, which might have been prolonged indefinitely, had not a catamount come to the open door of their retreat one night. Its blazing eyes frightened them so that they fled down the hill to Sperry's home.

After stopping with him a few days they went to Woodbridge, three miles beyond, and found another cave, The Lodge, or Hatchet Harbor. At this place there is a stream purling along between two trees, a walnut on one side and a chestnut on the other. Near this there are still traces of a basin, built by the Judges. The name Hatchet Harbor comes from a legend that as the three neared this little camping spot, one of them exclaimed: "Would to God we had a hatchet!" and, on the instant, picked up a crude stone affair left there by Indians.

The three men cut boughs and built a temporary shelter and afterward built a stone hut, the ruins of which are still there. From this spot as from Judges' Cave they could see the harbor and all approaching vessels.

One of the many legends about the Judges relates how, in 1664, they left their hiding place and went to Hadley. Here, in September, the Indians surrounded the meeting house and the handful of worshippers were demoralized and about to give themselves up to be scalped by the savages, when an old man appeared, from no one knew where, and putting courage into their hearts, led them in an attack which routed the redskins. The old man was Goffe.

The feeling in England was so strong against these men and those who befriended them that they lived and died in secrecy. They are buried back of the Centre Church in the New Haven Green. Goffe's headstone is marked M. G. instead of W. G., and there is a line across the top of the M. It is commonly supposed that this is meant for an inverted W. Whalley's headstone has such a blurred date that it is not possible to tell whether the date is 1658 or 1678. The blurring is not the effect of time, but a deliberate carving. It was feared at the time that if their burying places were generally known the graves would be robbed in the night and the bodies mutilated or shipped to England. Dixwell lived seventeen years under the name of James Davids. Gov. Eaton and Gov. Jones are buried in the same plot with the three Judges who lived so tragically under their régime.

Good automobile roads lead to both the caves which sheltered the men, and those living in the neighborhood are always willing to point out the historic spots.

Judges' Cave as it Looks To-day

Lenox Gains Through European War—Tables Turned on Would-be Hero—What Is Doing at Popular Resorts.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Aug. 15.—Lenox and the Berkshires are to gain social importance by the European war. Hurrying home from the Continent are many owners of Lenox properties who have ordered their places opened for their coming. This means an increase in the number of entertainments.

Most of the cottagers in Europe from whom nothing had been heard last week have reported their whereabouts. Among those who are still missing are Mrs. Richard C. Greenleaf and her son, Richard C. Greenleaf, Jr., knowledge of whose present whereabouts would greatly aid the Lenox Club in the transfer of the Greenleaf property to the club. It is necessary for the transfer of "Windyside" to the Lenox Club to have the signature of Mrs. Greenleaf to the deeds. She was last reported to be touring somewhere in the South of France.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shields Clarke have been anxious for news from their son, Charles John Clarke, an art student in the Julian Academy in Paris, who was last heard from in Brittany, where he was sketching.

John W. Kohlsaat and the Misses Amy and Edith Kohlsaat are reported to be in London and are expected soon in Stockbridge.

The situation in Europe has caused a falling off in the number of week-end visitors in the Berkshires, the war keeping many husbands and brothers confined to offices in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Dixey were obliged to cancel their entertainments for August because of the sudden departure of their house help, who were called back to France. In several other villas there are similar conditions. This curtailing of social affairs will last but a little time, however, as agents for the cottagers are busy filling positions which were vacated by the loyal French.

The most interesting social event of the week was a masked ball at the Wyantenuck Country Club, where Dr. and Mrs. J. Dodge Peters of New York entertained about 100 friends. The men guests wore black Pierrot costumes and the women were in white. There was a very attractive illumination of the clubhouse and grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. C. Church have issued invitations for a reception and dance Monday night at Great Barrington. Mr. and Mrs. Church are entertaining Miss Cornelia Wooley, Miss Mabel Overton of New York, Miss Margaret Hayes of Jackson, Mich., Miss Eleanor Scott of Pittsburgh, Kirby Green of Greenwich, Conn., Francis H. Brown of Honolulu, and other friends.

The Rev. Thomas W. Nickerson, rector of St. Stephen's Church (Episcopal) in Pittsfield, resigned this week after fourteen years of service. He was one of the most important churchmen in the Berkshires and had had a place in the social life of the Summer colonies. He went to St. Stephen's from the Church of the Messiah in Boston after a successful rectorship at Paterson, N. J.

Mr. Zenas Crane, of Dalton, who gave to Berkshire County the Museum of Natural History and Arts in Pittsfield, has just added a new art room to the museum and given seventeen paintings, including a Raeburn and a Daubigny. Mr. Crane has spent on the buildings and equipment more than a half-million dollars, and the museum has taken its place as one of the finest outside of the large cities.

A programme of sports beginning next week includes golf, tennis, boating, swimming events, and baseball by women. Tuesday, on the Stockbridge golf course, the eighteenth annual open amateur tournament will begin for the Stockbridge golf cup, which remains for one year in the custody of the club represented by the winner. It becomes the personal property of the competitor who wins it three times.

The cup has been won twice by Spottswood D. Bowers, 1905, 1909, and Walter R. Tuckerman, 1907, 1910, both of whom are entered in this year's tournament, as is also Roger H. Hovey, who won the cup last year.

Roy A. Curtiss and Mrs. Charles L. Wetherbee have presented trophies for golf at the Wyantenuck Country Club.

On Aug. 24 the fourth annual tennis tournament at the Greenock Country Club, Lee, will begin, with George F. Dunn, Edward W. Y. Dunn, Jr., Waldo H. Rice, John D. Stevens, and John M. Deely as Tournament Committee. Today there was match play at the Stockbridge Golf Club for the August Cup.

Miss Irene Turnure won the most points at the Lake Mahkennac Boating Club water sports this week, adding to her score the weekly swimming event and the canoe race. The club offers a cup to the contestant scoring the most points during the season.

RESCUER GETS RESCUED.

Youth Tries to Save Girl, but She Saves Him.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKE GEORGE, Aug. 15.—Last Wednesday, what might have been a tragedy, became a comedy when a canoe, in which Miss Gertrude Schimpf of New York was paddling, suddenly upset. An immaculately dressed young man gallantly plunged to her rescue, but proved to be such a poor swimmer that Miss Schimpf, who is an expert, had to turn round and assist him to shore.

The interest of the Summer colony is centred today in the annual meeting of the Lake George Association at the Lake George Club.

The association includes in its membership nearly all property owners and Summer residents in this vicinity and through its various committees during the past year has secured the enactment of legislation of great value to the lake region. The conservation of game fish, the law requiring lights, anchors, whistles, and life preservers to be carried by motor boats, a comprehensive system of buoys and the elimination of sewage in the lake, has all been due to the efforts of this body.

The project, soon to be undertaken, of reclaiming a large area of marsh land at the head of the lake is attracting much attention, as it is the first movement of the kind in this vicinity. Besides providing a large number of waterfront camp sites, the carrying out of the scheme will prevent the breeding of mosquitos which infest this point and also greatly beautify the shore line.

The tract lies within a few rods of the ruins of Fort George, and is cut off from the lake proper by a dike traversed by a roadway.

A retaining wall is to be built at right angles to the dike dividing the swamp in two. The muck will then be excavated on one side of the wall, making a harbor with access to the lake through the dike, and will be used for filling in the other side, forming dry land with an elevation of four or five feet.

The property was originally used by the State, but was deeded in 1880 to Columbia University and Union College. It later passed through several hands before being purchased by Benjamin C. Greene, who first saw the possibilities in its development.

On Thursday of next week will be held the annual regatta of the Lake George Regatta Association. From the number of entries received it looks as if this event will be the most successful of its kind ever held here. The beautiful silver cup offered by The Lake George Mirror for the winner in a scratch race for thirty-mile hydroplanes has attracted entries from the Great Lakes and the Hudson River.

An exhibition race has also been arranged between Ankle Deep, cup defender in the recent Gold Cup races, and Hawk Eye, the syndicate boat. The latter, which has been completely overhauled, will also attempt to lower the world's record for one mile. Other motor-boat events, together with rowing and swimming races, for which handsome cups have been offered, will round out the programme.

This regatta, which will be held at Hague, will be followed on Aug. 26 and 27 by the Iroquois regatta at the head of the lake.

The Lake George Club was the scene Thursday night of a water pageant and fancy dress ball, one of the most elaborate social affairs held this year. The harbor and grounds, illuminated by searchlights and colored lights, formed a beautiful setting for the events.

MOURNING FOR MRS. WILSON

Many Functions Canceled on Account of It at White Sulphur Springs

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Aug. 15.—The season's high tide, which will be reached during the coming fortnight, has been foreshadowed in the gayety of the past few days. The social calendar has exceeded last season in the number and brilliance of its entertainments. Morning, afternoon, and evening germans have been features, and a series of luncheons, teas, and suppers have followed in the wake of the Fifth Annual Horse Show.

A period of several days' mourning that was observed for Mrs. Woodrow Wilson came in the midst of a series of entertainments that had been planned and were abandoned. The presence of many from official life, including Chief Justice and Mrs. White, former Secretary of State and Mrs. Philander Chase Knox, Senator and Mrs. James A. O'Gorman, and the fact that Mrs. Wilson had spent a portion of the Spring season here, where she endeared herself to many, were the reasons for the observance of mourning by the cottagers as well as the hotel visitors, who declined and withdrew all invitations.

Records for horseback trips over the trails, which have been a feature of the season's outdoor sports, have been eclipsed this week by Mr. and Mrs. Philander Chase Knox, Jr., who are living at a lumber camp fifty miles from here. Mr. and Mrs. Knox arrived here Monday evening at dusk, having made the trip over the mountains in a day.

Mr. Knox was among the judges at the water sports on Monday evening for handsome silver cups offered by a New York member of the cottage colony, who has also given cups for a Southampton tombstone golf tournament this week. Other judges included James H. Preston, the Mayor of Baltimore, George G. McMurtry, Jr.; Dr. John Freeland of New York, and Lieut. Commander J. B. Gilmer, U. S. N., of Washington.

Signor Arnaldo Tamburini of Florence, Italy, is spending the season here with Madame Tamburini. Signor Tamburini, who is the court portrait painter to Victor Emmanuel, King of Italy, has been engaged on several portraits of New York visitors here.

NARRAGANSETT PIER.

New Polo Field Will Be Ready for 1915 Tournament.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 15.—Mid-August finds the season at its height at Narragansett, with ample entertainment for members of the Summer colony, both in and out of doors.

The annual open lawn tennis tournament has been in progress during the last week on the courts of the Point Judith Country Club, and the events have attracted many devotees of this sport.

Four silver cups are offered as prizes. Among the players are F. C. Inman of New York, E. Fottrell of California, Watson Washburn, P. S. P. Randolph, Jr., of Philadelphia, H. H. Whitman of New York, Claude Branch of Providence, J. G. Thomas of Baltimore, Rowland Hasard of Pescedale, R. I., and F. W. Paul, Jr., of Philadelphia.

Rowland Hasard is Chairman of the Tennis Committee. The other members include Howard Hitchcock, S. Hinman Bird, Henry B. Kane, and Kenneth M. Murchison of New York.

The entries for this season are unusually large, and the matches have been well attended.

In the final event for the J. B. Thomas Cup in the open championship series of the Point Judith polo tournament on Monday the Meadow Brook Magpies defeated the Narragansetts and carried off the silver trophy.

Among those who witnessed the match were August Belmont, who sailed over from Newport with a party of six on board the yacht Scout, and Pembroke Jones, who sailed here on the Alert. Others here for the tourney were Mrs. J. Watson Webb, E. D. Morgan, Jr., Mrs. Charles Randolph Snowden, Mrs. Henry W. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. H. Le Roy Whitney, and Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock.

An additional polo field will be arranged on the Polo Club grounds before next season. This will make three fields available for the annual tournament of 1915.

An event of the week was the annual costume ball on Friday evening. Pierrots and Pierrettes, Spanish dancing girls, Mexicans, and peasant maids joined in the dance. Many of the cottagers gave dinners before the ball. Among those entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. James C. Barr of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Smith-Hanan of New York, John Welsh, Mr. and Mrs. C. Coburn Darling, and others of the Summer colony. The committee of arrangements included Dr. A. F. Hopkins of Washington, P. S. P. Randolph of Philadelphia, Henry B. Kane of New York, and O. L. Mersman of St. Louis.

HE SIMPLY HAD TO DIVE.

All Clothed, He Leaped Into Water Because Girl Wouldn't Take Dare.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Because Miss Charlotte Stege, a Brooklyn girl spending the Summer here, promptly accepted a challenge, Henry Struse, of Brooklyn, was obliged to jump fully clothed into the Windsor swimming pool and is now good naturedly standing the bantering of his friends.

Miss Stege, who is one of the best of the women swimmers here, and Mr. Struse were beside the pool dressed for an afternoon function and watching the bathers, when the young man dared his companion to jump in, declaring that he would follow. The words were no sooner spoken than she dived and there was nothing for him to do but take the plunge also.

Elizabethtown's cherished dream of a lake was realized this week, when the gates of the new dam across the Boquet River were closed on Tuesday and the valley flooded. The result is a narrow lake about two miles long, which extends through the woods. The members of the Summer colony are delighted with the new body of water and boating has temporarily displaced all other sports in favor.

In the golf tournament, which is now under way and will continue until Labor Day, some excellent scores are being made. The first handicap event was won by Dr. D. Webb Granberry of New York, with a net score of 75. One of the exciting foursomes of the week was that in which Ben Franklin and B. F. Stetson defeated H. H. Vaughn and Leroy Austin. Officers elected by the Golf Club are President, Augustus Hand, Vice President, Erman J. Ridgway, Secretary and Treasurer, the Rev. H. H. Pittman. Members of the Executive Committee are William S. Kellogg, Benjamin F. Stetson, and James De Long.

NEWPORT SOCIETY WOMEN START WAR RELIEF FUND

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 15.—Through the thoughtfulness of Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish an International War Relief Fund was organized here among the women of the Summer colony, after a meeting at the residence of Mrs. Fish. Their efforts are now directed toward the holding of a fête for the fund on the lawn of the Breakers, the residence of Mrs. Vanderbilt, on the afternoon of Aug. 25.

The evening of the same day will be given over to the presentation of tableaux in the large hall of Mrs. Vanderbilt's residence, where society women will pose, with special scenery and costumes. Howard G. Cushing will be in charge, assisted by Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.

At least 500 people can be seated in the hall and see the stage well, so there is a large sum in sight for the fund. The committee has the co-operation of a committee of Newport citizens.

Mrs. August Belmont is in charge of the publicity department. The ladies of the committee have been meeting daily. They include Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, Mrs. Ogden Mills and Miss Edith K. Wetmore.

Mr. Lawrence L. Gillespie is general treasurer.

The ladies who were instrumental with Mrs. Fish in starting the society and who are the patronesses included Mrs. George D. Widener, Mrs. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, Lady Herbert of England, Mrs. R. Livingston Beeckman, Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Mrs. E. H. G. Slater, Miss Lota Robinson of Baltimore, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. French Vanderbilt, Mrs. George Lockhart Rives, Mrs. James B. Haggin, Mrs. Charles F. Hoffman and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James.

Among the ladies who will pose in the color scheme tableau are Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Howard G. Cushing, Mrs. Ogden L. Mills and her sister, Mrs. Barbara Rutherfurd, Mrs. George B. Paker Jr. and Mrs. Henry Pierpont Perry.

There will be six tables. The animal table will be in charge of Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, assisted by Miss Lota Robinson of Baltimore, Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen, Mrs. Norman Whitehouse, Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie, and Mrs. James Stewart Barney.

Mrs. Pembroke Jones will have the fruit table, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. J. Russell Pope, Miss Miriam Harriman and other young people.

Mrs. J. Francis A. Clark will have the toy table, Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, the blue garden table; Mrs. James B. Haggin the fancy articles table, and Mrs. George D. Widener, Mrs. Clarence W. Dolan, and Mrs. Darlington, wife of the Bishop of Harrisburg, the candy table.

The company of naval apprentices from the Training Station will give their silent drill. Dancing by professionals and other attractions will be included.

The committee hopes to raise at least $20,000 by means of the fête, tableaux, and subscriptions.

Newport expects to have the latest season in its social history this year on account of the war in Europe, as those who usually go to Europe at the close of the regular Newport season will remain here.

Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer of Boston, who started for Europe two weeks ago and changed her plans because of the war, returned from Manchester last Wednesday and is once more occupying her cottage on Bellevue Avenue.

Corporation Counsel and Mrs. Polk, who arrived from New York Tuesday to visit Mrs. Charles H. Baldwin at Snug Harbor, were guests of honor at a large dinner which Mrs. Baldwin gave Tuesday night.

Mrs. Fullam, wife of Capt. William F. Fullam, commandant of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, and Miss Rhoda Fullam are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Francis I. Gowen, who is occupying the Shields cottage on Ochre Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sampson Stevens are at the Maenchinger-King cottage.

Mrs. Gambrill will give a dinner for young people at her residence on Aug. 27.

Mrs. Eugene Hale, Jr., of New York is visiting her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Roderick Terry, Jr.

Miss Miriam Harriman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Harriman of New York, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones.

The Countess Festetics of New York is visiting Mr. and Mrs. James B. Haggin at Villa Rosa.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Van Alen, who intended to remain for the month of August at Wakehurst, will remain indefinitely. Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt will remain at the Gill cottage until November, and Mrs. I. Townsend Burden plans to remain until about the same time.

One of the largest dinner parties of the season was given by Mr. and Mrs. Dulany Howland Monday evening. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Rives, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver G. Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Appleton Robbins, Mrs. Slater, Mrs. Henry S. Redmond, Miss Evelyn Burden, and the Messrs. Franklin A. Plummer, Roderick Terry, Jr., and Henry R. Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Griswold A. Thompson arrived Tuesday on the power yacht San Toy II., which they have chartered for the Summer.

Miss Annie Leary, who had arranged for a series of entertainments and a ball for Miss Bristed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Astor Bristed of Lenox, who are spending the Summer here, has decided not to come to Newport.

AMONG SUMMER COLONISTS

Lookouts That Guard Against Fires in White Mountains of New Hampshire—News From Popular Resorts.

Special to The New York Times.

BRETTON WOODS, N. H., Aug. 15—The recent conference of the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests, held at Gorham, was attended by many Summer residents, some of whom are also members of the New Hampshire Timber Owners' Association. They learned some interesting facts concerning the methods adopted for preserving the wild, primitive beauty of the White Mountain forests.

It was a surprise to many, for instance, to learn that in the White Mountains proper 138,572 acres of timber land are owned by the Government. They include the northern slopes of the Presidential Range and a portion of the northern slopes of the Franconia Range, as well as the eastern slopes of the Carter-Moriah group.

Every resident of the State should know something of the first principles of fire fighting and what to do in case of forest fires. A match carelessly thrown by the roadside, a cigarette or cigar stub still burning, have been known to do thousands upon thousands of dollars' worth of damage. Over 1,000 acres of timber land were burned over in Jackson alone this Spring, endangering several Summer homes and disfiguring the landscape beyond measure. Every town has a fire warden, and in every local telephone book residents are earnestly requested to telephone the nearest fire warden in case of fire, that prompt measures may be taken toward extinguishing it.

Many of the large hotels have carefully trained fire crews, composed of employes who are instructed in the first principles of fire fighting. At the first hint of a fire in the White Hills farmers leave their work, merchants close their shops, and every one works side by side until the fire is under control. Summer residents often join and do valuable work.

James P. Taylor, President of the Greater Vermont Association, presented a topic of interest in his story of the beginning of the sky-line trails which are to form a network over the tops of all the peaks in the Green Mountain range and which will be extended through other States, as they have been in New Hampshire and Vermont, will make possible a sky-line tour of all New England.

One hundred and fifty miles of these trails in Vermont have already been completed, while in New Hampshire the western branch forms a bridge to the Vermont trail system where the New Hampshire trails will be brought through from the White Hills to the Connecticut Valley to meet those of Vermont. The Dartmouth trail will soon be completed, and there will be a continuous woodland path doubling well back to Mount Monadnock in Southern New Hampshire. Possible connections will be trails crossing Massachusetts over the Berkshires and thence onward through the Litchfield hills in Connecticut. Other natural extensions will carry the trails to Quebec in one direction by way of the Notre Dame Mountains and along the highlands of the Hudson in the other.

Thanks to the enterprise of the Appalachian Mountain Club, the White Mountains comprise one vast network of trails and well-defined paths, and others are now being made. No more complete system of trails exists outside Switzerland and the Tyrol, and mountain climbing, from being a dangerous sport, has been made safe. The cairns along the mountain tops above the timber line, the shelters and stone huts where blankets and provisions are always to be found, the springs carefully indicated by signs, and other thoughtful provision for the comfort of the tramper make climbing in the New England Alps delightful indeed. The trampers co-operate with the fire wardens in promptly reporting any fires seen and Morse code signals flashed with mirrors supplement the telephone in places difficult of access.

Among the lookouts established in the White Mountains are those on Dix Peak, Mount Kearsarge, Mount Carrigan, Mount Moosilauke, and others on the lesser peaks.

Conserving the forests does not mean simply saving the trees, but protecting the water supply as well, which makes it all the more vital to the Summer residents.

Water Carnival at Upper Saranac.

Special to The New York Times.

UPPER SARANAC, N. Y., Aug. 15.—The annual water carnival of Upper Saranac Lake will take place on Aug. 21 and 22. The fastest displacement boats afloat on Saranac waters will compete for speed honors, and the guides of the Adirondacks are to compete for the championship.

The former boat champion, the Eagle, owned by Henry S. Graves, Jr., of New York, is in readiness and expects to meet Babette, the new fast boat of Mr. Henry Goldman of New York. The other events include swimming, diving, tilting, canoe races, sailing race, and tub race.

The annual tennis tournaments, including men's singles, women's singles, men's doubles, women's doubles, and mixed doubles, will open on Monday. A strong feature will be the competition for the Landreth Cup, won by W. Linton Landreth of Philadelphia.

Sea Girt Rifle Matches.

Special to The New York Times.

SEA GIRT, Aug. 15.—Interest centers in the approaching rifle matches on the State rifle range, where the National Rifle Association, the International Association of American Riflemen, the New Jersey State Rifle Association, the New York State Rifle Association, and the Eastern Divisional States will compete. The match will extend over a period of ten days and crack shots from this and foreign countries will participate. Brig. Gen. Bird W. Spencer will be the tournament official. These matches always attract large crowds of Summer people from this and nearby resorts.

Sports at Fisher's Island.

FISHER'S ISLAND, Aug. 15.—The ladies' one-design boat race, held last Saturday with nine "knockabouts" entered, was won by Miss Isabelle Ehse. The race was close, and was won with a margin of about a minute.

The men's tennis singles at the Hay Harbor Club are still in progress and many clever players keep the matches fast and close. A. L. Ferguson and J. Thomas seem to have the best chance as they have kept a clean slate up to the semi-finals.

The weekly boat race for the August Cup was sailed this week by Mr. Darrow. The winner of the race two weeks ago

MANY IN WAR ZONE.

Some Hot Springs Summer Colonists Not Yet Heard From.

Special to The New York Times.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Aug. 15.—In the Summer colony here there is scarcely a family whose interests or plans have not been in some way affected by the European war situation, and conversation all the week has been largely on that topic. Mrs. Calderon Carlisle of Washington, who is spending the Summer abroad, is supposed to be still in Paris. Her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Howe, who is occupying the Carlisle cottage here, has not heard from her for some time.

Mrs. Charles H. Brooks has received word that her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brooks of New York, who have been touring France and Switzerland in their motor, have sailed for America on the France from Havre. They were among those whose automobiles were requisitioned by the Government and were obliged to sail with hand baggage only.

Mrs. Melville E. Ingalls and Miss Gladys Ingalls, who were planning to spend part of the Autumn in Europe with Miss Alice Scarboro of Cincinnati, have given up the trip on account of the war, and Mr. and Mrs. George Cole Scott of Richmond, who were just about to sail for Europe when war was declared, are spending August instead with Mr. and Mrs. Lanier Dunn at Gramercy Farm.

Baron and Baroness Rosenkrantz, who have been spending the Summer with Mr. and Mrs. George Gunton at Gunton Lodge, sailed last week for England on the Adriatic. Baron Rosenkrantz expecting to join his regiment, and the Baroness with some intention of joining the volunteer Red Cross nurses.

Mrs. George H. Chatillon, with Mrs. William H. Klenke, and Miss E. Gregor of New York, who had planned to sail for Europe last week, came here instead.

Mrs. C. J. Turner and Miss I. J. Turner of Montclair are among those who have relatives and friends stranded in Europe.

Clendenning J. Ryan, who is spending the month here, has been calling up the Ryan residence in New York frequently this week on the long-distance telephone seeking to get news of relatives and friends in Europe. Recently he filled two motor cars with friends and took them to White Sulphur Springs for the day. In his party were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bright, Miss Eleanor Bright, Miss Louise Frith, Miss McDonald, Dr. R. A. Black, and E. A. Perry, Jr.

Mrs. Charles Belmont Davis of New York, wife of the writer, was fortunate enough to return from France just before war was declared, and has joined Mr. Davis at Warm Springs for August.

Miss Dorothy Albert gave a picnic a few days ago at Windy Cave, eighteen miles away, taking a score or more of young people over on horseback and in runabouts. Her guests included the Misses Mercer, Margaret and Sarah Dunlop, Louise Todd, Eleanor Bright, Isabelle and Dorothy Palms, and Messrs. Charles Palms, Jewett Todd, Edgar Bright, and Joseph Eddy.

Mrs. Frederick Sterry and Miss Prudence Sterry are entertaining at The Uplands Miss Caryl Hackstaff and Miss Josephine Wells of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ingalls and family of Chicago have motored here from Watch Hill, R. I., and are at the White Cottage for the Summer.

CAPE ANN RESORTS.

Memorial Service for Fishermen at Gloucester—Much Dancing at Magnolia.

Special to The New York Times.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 15.—The height of the season is here, but there is no denying the fact that there are not so many people in Gloucester as there usually are at this period. This is no doubt due to the cool days that have prevailed.

The annual sale for the benefit of the Fishermen's Institute of Gloucester, held on Aug. 5, was well patronized by home and Summer folk. The affair was in charge of the churches of the city.

The Hon. A. Piatt Andrew, formerly Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and now up for nomination for Congress from this district, gave the address at the annual memorial service for lost fishermen held at Stage Fort Park on the afternoon of Aug. 9. The strewing of flowers upon the waters of the harbor on the outgoing tide by little children was one of the impressive features of the service.

The best baseball contest of the season came off on the afternoon of Aug. 8 on Webster Field, when the Knights of King Arthur of Gloucester won out after a great uphill fight over "Dutch" Holland's crack Beverly Farms team by a score of 2 to 1.

In order to be in closer communication with the home office, the Summer establishment of the British Embassy, heretofore maintained at the Parker Bremer estate, Manchester-by-the-Sea, was shifted to Washington on Aug. 8. Lord Camden, an attaché, First Secretary Lindley, Secretaries Seymour and Osborne remain, but only until some important mail has been received.

At the Essex County Club on Aug. 7 Miss Eleonora Sears won in three sets of tennis against Miss Alice Thordyke.

On Aug. 5 Miss Elaine Denegre, with H. H. Whitman as partner, won over Miss Margaret Thomas and G. L. Cabot.

Miss Mabel T. Boardman, secretary of the American Red Cross, who left Manchester-by-the-Sea recently for an extended visit with Vice-President Taft's family at Murray Bay, Canada, went immediately to Washington when the European war was declared. The American Red Cross has already proffered its aid in the crisis and National Director Bicknell has sailed for Europe.

Ex-Senator Beveridge joins his family today at Smith's Point, Manchester, for a ten days' stay.

The Summer colony at Magnolia is very gay. Dancing takes precedence over all other forms of amusement, all the North Shore flocking to Magnolia for Teas and Soirées Dansants.

Monmouth Beach to Have Yacht Club.

Special to The New York Times.

MONMOUTH BEACH, N. J., Aug. 15.—The Monmouth Beach Yacht Club will organize and elect officers on Wednesday evening. A new yacht clubhouse and pier has been built, and the cottagers are planning to hold a regatta the last week in August. The club will start with thirty members.

WARDROBE VS. VACATION.

Women Need Not Stock Former if They Spend Latter in Adirondacks.

SUMMER wardrobe vs. Summer vacation is the mighty problem which a vast army of women all over the country are now facing.

Whether to have a modest wardrobe and an extended vacation or an elaborate gowning and an abbreviated playtime is a question which must soon be answered. Fashion books have been eagerly studied, department stores have been tramped with martial dignity, and bargain counters have been persistently haunted in the fond hope that the democratic American dollar may be stretched and made to do the work of three.

Many women have yet to learn that large trunks are not a necessary adjunct to a successful vacation. A small camera will store up more health and happy memories than all the trunks on the market. The woman who spends all of her time before the hotel mirror had much better stay at home. Nature bestows her greatest benefits on those who lead the most simple lives. The back-to-nature cry is a practical as well as idealistic reaction from the modern trend of life.

In the beautiful Adirondack region of Northern New York, for instance, it is easy to count on the fingers of one hand the fashionable resorts where one's wardrobe is required to be elaborate and stands as one's social sponsor. In the majority of Adirondack resorts the life is simple. The spirit of good-fellowship permeates all and is extended to every newcomer of pleasant mien, whether she travels with trunks or merely an unobtrusive suitcase.

At the majority of these lesser resorts there are small camps and cottages which may be rented for nominal sums, and the cost of food is practically the same as at home, in some cases less. Cottages in some parts of the region may be leased for as low a sum as $150 for a whole season. These cottages are invariably situated on the shores of charming lakes and are furnished throughout, including row boats. They are not, of course, at the fashionable resorts, for there the camps and cottages are of an elaborate order and rent as high as $5,000 for a season.

A party of four or more women may come to the Adirondack Mountains and, sharing expense and housework in one of these cottages, may remain all season for the sum of $7 per week each. This does not include railroad fare to and from the resort. The stimulative properties of the Adirondack forest with its pungent odors of pine, spruce, and balsam, react on the jaded appetite, and plain but nourishing food is the most desirable and satisfactory diet.

Modest wardrobes at these resorts are the rule and not the exception, and shirtwaist suits with a few tub dresses predominate. Sweaters are the favorite outer garment, hats are broad brimmed and simple, and all accessories are unpretentious.

The more often one comes to these resorts the less one cares about the conventions of dress. There have been cases where the modest wardrobe has been further curtailed in order that its possessor might become the proud owner of a new fish rod and tackle outfit.

A few years ago two middle-aged women pitched a tent on the wooded shore of one of the lakes of the Fulton Chain region, and proceeded to rough it in the most approved fashion. They had little furniture, and what they did have was largely made out of soap boxes and packing cases. Their finest porch chair bore the title of a well-known soap broadly painted on its side, while the table and lone dressing stand were also made of boxes and were surprisingly unique and comfortable.

Their entire Summer vacation cost them a sum too ridiculously low to mention, and their camp attracted much friendly interest. Many visitors stopped to see them and inquire if anything could be done to add to their comfort, while more than one prospective bride made secret note of the rigid economies with hopes to profit thereby. The two campers bravely refused all offers of succor, and gloried in their Spartan existence. In the majority of cases, however, it is wise to leave this primitive rough camp life to men.

The modern unpretentious camp or cottage will furnish all the requisites for a comfortable Summer while at the same time satisfying the craving for relief from the superficialities of city life.

After one or two of these soul-satisfying seasons in the Adirondack Mountains the bargain counter Marathon becomes a thing of the past, and the woman invariably constitutes herself Judge and jury, in one, and decides unalterably in favor of the defendant in the calendar case of Summer wardrobe vs. Summer vacation.

At Richfield Springs.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHFIELD SPRINGS, Aug. 15.—There was a very interesting dance on last Saturday evening, which was enjoyed by a large number of the young people who were watched by an even larger number of spectators. The evening ended with a contest among several couples for a cup which was given by George H. Robinson. The contest was so close that three couples, Miss Swift and Mr. Tunnicliff, Mrs. Wetsel and Mr. Bloomfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Montgomery, were obliged to draw for the decision. The last-named couple won out.

A card party for the benefit of the painting fund for St. John's Church will be given this week. Among those serving on the committee are Mrs. Edgar Carey, Mrs. Tunnicliff, Mrs. Wilson D. Jewell, Mrs. William A. Robinson and Allen J. Bloomfield.

Alfred Crain, the young son of Dr. Alfred Crain, formerly of New York, rescued a man from drowning last week. Young Mr. Crain, seeing that Mr. Montgomery's butler was in difficulty while bathing, dove into the water and brought him to the surface after he had sunk for the third time.

Young Women Black-Face Minstrels

Special to The New York Times.

AVON, N. J., Aug. 15.—Young women of the Avon Summer colony appeared in black-face tonight at the annual minstrel show and vaudeville of the Avon Comedy Club. The entertainment was held in the Beach Casino, and attracted a big audience of Summer folk. The entertainment was followed by a dance. The proceeds went to local charities.

A Word to Manufacturers
Buyers representing Western merchants arrived here in such large numbers in the last week that the hotels where they usually stayed were overcrowded and turning them away last night, although it was said the influx probably was not yet at its height. The host exceeded by 1,000 or more the largest number ever before assembled here.—From the Business Page of The New York Times, Aug. 14th.
Orders for the six New York morning newspapers at forty-five leading hotels show that the net paid daily sale of The New York Times is 36 per cent. of the total sales.
Manufacturers can reach these buyers with announcements on the Business Page of The Times.

PARIS FASHIONS, BY CABLE TO THE TIMES

In Spite of War's Alarms, Dressmakers at French Capital Have Set New Modes Which Will Doubtless Be Adopted Here.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—The French designers have rallied to some degree from the panic caused by the mobilization of the French Army and the beginning of war. This week they have been showing gowns to the few American buyers in Paris. Under trying and terrible conditions the designers have succeeded in changing the style, setting new modes which America will doubtless follow.

Callot's new designs are less revolutionary than those of other houses. The skirts are only a few inches wider than they have been. The overskirts of her models are very full and are cut to points in the back and front. Callot coats come to the hips and are pinched at the waist, with a flaring at sides and back.

This house shows street suits in black and dark blue, combined with plaid in various shades of brown. Covert cloth is much used, as well as serge, while some suits are of broadcloth.

A novelty gown shown in the Callot display is of varnished black satin, done in such a way that it looks like oilcloth. There are hip draperies and a square train, caught with pink roses. A white bodice, with a white tulle top, is folded around the figure.

Callot is showing evening gowns made of Oriental gauze, with high collars, mounted on white or salmon satin. Evening coats of Narcissus red are exhibited. Satin dinner gowns have much tulle in bright colors festooned upon them. Evening skirts are unusually short.

Premet has been meeting serious difficulties, but has an interesting display, and is the only house not asking cash for gowns. The chief designer died recently, while the Premet manager has gone to the war. These two made successes with American buyers. They created the new style for skirts four yards wide, cut circular with many widths, made flat at the hips and with broad pleats at the sides.

A new note of the season is a skirt with the lower edge cut to a point in the back and in the front.

Premet coats are knee length, made long at the waist without belts, and showing the flaring Louis XV. style from the hips. There are no revers. The coats fasten straight up the front to the neck, with embroidery or plaid velvet flat collars. The long sleeves are made tight from the elbow.

Materials used at this house are woolen duvetyn, gaberdine, serge, and velvet. A novelty material is black silk with velvet bands forming a wide plaid. A full skirt made of this carries a short black velvet coat flaring from the waist.

Plaid velvet coats are used with plain cloth skirts. Plaid collars and plaid hip yokes at the sides of the skirts are shown on blue serge frocks. No high collars are seen.

For coat suits white organdy neckwear and elbow sleeves in chiffon blouses are being used. In these suits Premet is showing brick-dust color combined with blue, and burgundy red combined with black or brown.

Evening gowns are made without sleeves, but with jeweled shoulder straps. Greek bodices, cut to points on the shoulder and held with jewels, are also favored.

On one white satin evening gown Premet has a cape of bronze metal tulle, held by a band of yellow roses. Wonderful embroideries are on display at this house.

Poiret completed his models and intended to exhibit them on Aug. 13, but when the army was mobilized he closed his establishment and went to the front.

Paquin claims that it is impossible to get workers in Paris, and this house consequently shows few gowns. No attempt is made at creating new styles.

The Doucet house is closed as tight as Poiret's, and the head of the business is now with his regiment before the German hosts. Worth and Bechof have also closed their doors and gone to the war.

Cheruit will complete her models tomorrow and will open her display. She will doubtless duplicate her success of last Spring. She is demanding cash when the gowns are ordered. This house has some remarkably good models of coat suits and topcoats.

The house of Doeuillet sold its models before mobilization. The establishment is now open, but no models are being shown, although orders are being taken.

The manager confesses, however, that they are meeting great difficulty in getting materials at present. The house promises customers laces, embroidery, or ornaments similar to those used on the models already sold. The trouble is that the wholesale houses cannot deliver the goods.

At Bernard's the model collection is ready for display, although M. Jouda, head of the house, will go to the front this week.

Drecoll is having great success and displays the best collection at this house in three seasons. He declares he will keep his hands working and will pay them full wages until money is no longer available. Callot takes the same position. This house has 1,500 employes at work on hospital supplies.

Drecoll shows the same kind of skirts that are to be seen at Premet's—four-yard skirts with the hem cut to a point back and front. Long coats, flat at the back and flaring at the sides, are also exhibited.

An interesting new dance gown in this display is made of bright red velvet, with a full skirt gathered at the hem into a narrow fur band. The skirt is slashed at the sides to the hips, showing a chiffon skirt beneath.

The moyen âge silhouette prevails, with no waist line, showing a broad girdle at the hips.

Many one-piece frocks, fastened in the back, are displayed. Straight neck lines are in favor, with embroidered edge or flat turnover collar. The V-shaped neck has quite disappeared.

All Drecoll skirts are extremely short. This house favors black lace evening gowns with full ruffles or long overskirts of tulle and net.

THREE SMART COATS THAT THE COOL WEATHER CALLED FORTH AT THE FRENCH RACES

ON the left is a coat of ecru shantung, a really admirable choice for the Summer coat, for it has durability without heaviness, daintiness without the ever-menacing danger of countless wrinkles and creases. In the centre is a combinatoin coat and cape of dark blue Scotch tweed, belted comfortably about the waist and hanging easily from the shoulders. The coat on the right, with its widely flaring bottom, is made of black and white striped serge.

UP-TO-DATE FASHION HINTS

Parasol Shapes.

PARASOLS are made in triangular shape by means of three groups of two ribs. This shape has been seen at many of the fashionable seaside places.

New Bathing Suit.

There is a new bathing suit, with a long, wrinkled basque, made of black satin, that has proved successful.

Tennis Shirts.

Tennis skirts slashed at the sides and front are still worn in preference to any other sort. The accordion-pleated skirt is also satisfactory.

Taffeta in Favor.

Taffeta, it is predicted, will remain in favor for many months more. It is especially well adapted to the blouse of the present moment, which is not so full and blousing as it was a few months ago. It is more like the fitted basques that are shown on some of the new gowns—for it outlines the figure. Filmy chiffon and net and lace are far better adapted to the blousing styles that are leaving us than to the trimmer, tighter styles that seem to be coming to us. But taffeta is an ideal fabric for this newer type of blouse, and it is now being used widely.

Charming Underwear.

A charming piece of underwear is made of pink crepe de chine. There is a petticoat of accordion pleated chiffon, fastened to an underbodice of crepe de chine, trimmed with lace, and with pink satin bands over the shoulders. This combination could be worn under a frock of silk, or it could be worn with a negligee of any sort.

17 Minutes Grand Central to A. & S. Subway Station, Hoyt St.

All American Merchandise Sale Marvelous Mid-Summer Values

MADE IN AMERICA
An Inspiring Sale of American Merchandise

VERY IMPORTANT FACTS are very forcibly made known and illustrated by the Abraham & Straus advertisements today.

It is shown that, after all, the millions in America use mostly American goods.

It is demonstrated that so extraordinary has been the progress of this country in the peaceful arts, industry and manufacturing, and in the cultivation of mechanical and inventive skill and genius, that everything actually needed by the people can be made by and for our people.

That all these things are and can be made at low cost and SOLD AT MODERATE PRICES.

That under any and all circumstances this country can supply its own needs and even its luxuries.

It is more than a striking underprice sale. It is more than a demonstration of Abraham & Straus low prices. It is a practical exposition of the independency of the United States today, an inspiring evidence of its splendid, real, substantial strength, the vital strength that makes for better living and progress and helpfulness in the western hemisphere.

From the great factories of New England come beautiful Broadcloth and fashionable Fall fabrics of every kind. Not only are the best shoes made here in America, but some of the best right here in Brooklyn. The New York woman is not only noted as the best dressed woman in the world, but the greater part of the apparel of the average American woman, superb dresses, gowns, suits, wraps and waists, are produced in New York, and the American Hat vies with the smartness of the French, and sometimes exceeds it in becomingness.

Of course, all the world knows that America leads in the making of household needs, in labor saving devices, utilities, etc.

Lead the World.

Let us demonstrate that higher ability not only to measure up with the best in manufacturing, but to lead the world in square dealing, in fair pricing in any and all emergencies that may arise.

MID-AUGUST PLAYS AND PLAYERS

THE FIRST NIGHT CALENDAR

SYLVESTER SCHAFFER. His American debut in an entertainment arranged to display his varied talents. At the Forty-fourth Street Theatre Monday night.

"ON TRIAL." A new play by Elmer L. Reizenstein. Opening the new Candler Theatre Wednesday night.

"THE DANCING DUCHESS." A new musical comedy in two acts. Book by C. V. Kerr and R. H. Burnside. Music by Milton Lusk. At the Casino Theatre Wednesday night.

"WHAT HAPPENED AT 22." A new play by Paul Wilstach. At the Harris Theatre Friday night.

THE new things of the theatre are coming with a rush and the week that lies just ahead promises to be one of the busiest. The experience of the past fortnight warns all first-nighters that the calendar of openings is subject to violent change at short notice, but the prospects are for four new entertainments before another Sunday comes around.

Sylvester Schaffer, who was to have been introduced to the American theatregoer on Saturday evening, will receive that introduction tomorrow evening instead—at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre. The entertainment will be divided into two parts. Mr. Schaffer appearing during the latter half. In the course of two hours he does everything but sing. Various forms of musicianship, palming, expert marksmanship, acrobatics, card and coin manipulation, magic, juggling—these are some of his specialties.

Mr. Schaffer will appear at the Forty-fourth Street every evening, including Sundays, and on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons.

***

The new Candler Theatre, which stands at 226 West Forty-second Street, just west of Broadway, will have its opening on Wednesday evening next, when Cohan and Harris, by arrangement with Arthur Hopkins, will present a new play called "On Trial."

The author is Elmer L. Reizenstein, and this is his first play. It received its initial production Friday evening at Stamford, Conn., where it served to open the new Stamford Theatre.

The creation of the several roles in "On Trial" has been intrusted to the following players: Mary Ryan, Fred Perry, Helen Lackaye, Frederick Truesdell, Hans Robert, Constance Wolff, Leonine Flugrath, Lawrence Eddinger, George Barr, Frank Young, William Walcott, Gardner Crane, J. Wallace Clinton, Charles Walt, John Klenden, Howard Wall, R. A. Thayer, Edmund Purdy, Harry Friend, A. Tobell, Nat Lovitt, S. Reichner, J. H. Mathews and others.

Seats for the engagement of "On Trial" will be placed on sale at the Candler Theatre box office at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

After a postponement of a week, "The Dancing Duchess," a new musical comedy in two acts, will be shown for the first time at the Casino Theatre this Wednesday evening, Aug. 19. The book is by C. V. Kerr and R. H. Burnside and the music is the work of Milton Lusk. Mr. Burnside is also responsible for the staging. Since a few preliminary performances out of town, the cast of "The Dancing Duchess" has been slightly altered and several players have been added, so that the complete cast to open at the Casino Theatre will include John Hyams and Leila McIntyre, Dorothy Jardon, Otis Harlan, William Burress, Ada Lewis, Harry Davenport, Laura Hamilton, Mark Smith, John H. Goldsworthy, Jack Storey and Wallace McCutcheon and Vera Maxwell, the dancers. It seems unnecessary to add that there will be a large chorus.

The story, as far as it may be gleaned from the advance notices, appears to be all about dancing. It begins with a tango breakfast at the home of the Count and Countess von Bereny, on the outskirts of Vienna, and ends at the Grand Tango Contest at Budapest. The Count and his boon companions seek to escape the formality of the former entertainment in order that they may join the Budapest revelries. Their plans to escape become involved with Celestine, who it seems is the Duchess of Darmia, traveling "incog" because of her great yearning for the dance and seeking always to evade recapture by the Duke, who does not approve at all of this dancing of hers, which has won her the sobriquet of "The Dancing Duchess." Needless to say every one goes to the grand contest, including Otis Harlan as the Count's butler and Ada Lewis as the Countess's maid.

"What Happened at 22," the new play which comes to the Harris Theatre next Friday evening, is by Paul Wilstach, who is the author of several plays, and who was for several years the business representative of the late Richard Mansfield. In his new play, which is of a serious nature, the author has endeavored to demonstrate the great danger that exists in accepting circumstantial evidence in criminal cases, especially when that evidence is contributed by so-called accomplices. The title is suggested by the assumption that the happenings take place at a house supposed to be located at 22 Fifth Avenue, New York City. The story of the play concerns one David Wilson, a forger, who is so clever with his pen that for years he is unabled to outwit the law. Louise Lloyd, a young woman of good family, who has been obliged to seek employment, comes in contact with Wilson through a fake agency run by him and he becomes infatuated with her. In spite of the machinations of Wilson she finds employment in the house of a well-to-do family as companion to an invalid.

Through the instrumentality of the fake agency Wilson also enters the house as a valet, but it proves his undoing, as the man of the house is a famous lawyer engaged in the unraveling of the mysterious forgeries of which Wilson has been guilty. Through his cleverness, however, he almost succeeds in fastening not only these crimes but a more serious one on Francis Knowlton, the son of the lawyer, but through the wit and intuition of Louise Lloyd he is finally unmasked.

For the role of Wilson Mr. Fisher has engaged Reginald Barlow, and for that of Louise Lloyd, Carroll McComas, while others in the cast are Frank Kemble Cooper, Robert Fischer, Malcolm Duncan, J. K. Hutchinson, Wadsworth Harris, Charles Abbe, Elizabeth Arisans, Estar Banks, and Helen Crane. The presentation of "What Happened at 22" will mark the re-entrance of John C. Fisher as a producing manager, a field from which he has been absent for several years.

NOTES WRITTEN ON THE SCREEN

NEW YORK THEATRE.—"The $5,000,000 Counterfeiting Plot."

GLOBE.—"Cabiria."

VITAGRAPH.—"The Painted World" and "A Florida Enchantment."

STRAND.—"The Valley of the Moon."

The Fall premiere of "Cabiria" will be given at the Globe Theatre on Monday. Cabiria is the first motion picture to play without interruption for three Summer months on Broadway at dollar prices, with a symphony orchestra and chorus. The many phenomena that are included in d'Annunzio's film spectacle are acquiring recognition at the hands of the general public, and the Cabiria management talks of a Fall and Winter run.

The main photo-play at the Strand Theatre for the ensuing week is "The Valley of the Moon," written by Jack London, and said to be one of his most interesting stories depicting the experiences of a young couple, their struggles through all the various happenings of an industrial revolution, during which they are reduced to poverty. Finally the young husband and wife pack up their few belongings and start out to find some Government land which they may pre-empt and become farmers. They call this promised land "The Valley of the Moon." The story goes on to tell how they eventually find this land and become prosperous.

William Courtleigh, the Shepherd of the Lambs Club, has completed his first film performance, "The Better Man," by Cyrus Townsend Brady, produced by the Famous Players Film Company. It has just been released to the picture theatres throughout the world. In the four-reel production Mr. Courtleigh portrays the role of a courageous clergyman.

While the majority of the daily releases at the Vitagraph Theatre for the week commencing Aug. 17 are dramas, the themes and treatment are diversified. The first release of the week will be a military drama with a Western flavor, "Private Dennis Hogan." On Tuesday a special two-part feature by the Western Vitagraph Company, "An Innocent Delilah," is announced. Wednesday an unusually strong drama in which a headstrong young woman is famed by love, "Taken by Storm," with Clara Kimball Young as the subdued heroine, is the special release. Thursday, Maurice Costello will be featured in "The Woes of a Waitress," described as a drama with an unusually clear and convincing moral." On Friday, a version of "The Honeymooners," the pantomimic comedy that enjoyed a run of 250 performances at the Vitagraph Theatre with John Bunny, Mary Charleson, and James Morrison in person in the cast. On Saturday, an appealing human-interest drama in two parts, "Lily of the Valley," written by William Addison Lathrop, and featuring Lillian Walker and Earle Williams, will complete the programme.

The moving pictures of William J. Burns's most celebrated Secret Service cases, "The $5,000,000 Counterfeiting Plot," are the first to reproduce the actual details and actual methods of the detecting of a famous criminal case and were staged under the personal direction of Mr. Burns. The detective appears in the greater portion of the picture and in one part is shown with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. The picture is in six parts and contains some 600 scenes. Not only does it show a score or more of the detective tricks which Mr. Burns used in rounding up one of the cleverest bands of criminals in America, but it shows exactly how these criminals managed to make a well-nigh perfect counterfeit of the Monroe head one-hundred-dollar certificate.

Flirting with death seems to have become a popular diversion with Evelyn Selbie of the Western Essanay company. She has been lost in the mountains on horseback alone; rescued from a whirlpool that no one dared to enter but she, and she has been the only passenger to occupy a seat on top of the old stagecoach owned by the Essanay when it took a wild ride through boulder-floored rivers in a production called "The Crazy Prospector," some months ago.

Comedy—"Kitty MacKay."
Fulton—"Twin Beds."
Hudson—"The Dummy."
Longacre—"A Pair of Sixes."
Manhattan—"Peg o' My Heart."
New Amsterdam—"Ziegfeld's Follies."
Shubert—"The Third Party."
Thirty-ninth Street—"Too Many Cooks."
Winter Garden—"The Passing Show."

Last Nights.

After three more weeks two of the established entertainments will betake themselves from Broadway. After that interval the remarkable New York run of "Potash and Perlmutter" will come to an end, and there is that much time left also for the Ziefeld Follies.

FOR VAUDEVILLE'S PATRONS

PALACE.—The world-famous Meistersingers of Boston will make their first New York appearance at the Palace this week. The Meistersingers are one of the big vocal organizations in the country, being composed of the Harvard Quartette, the Schubert Quartette, and the Weber Quartette. Besides their singing specialties the Meistersingers will present their scenic spectacle, "In Gloucester." The ragtime star of the coming week will be Anna Chandler, who has just returned from a tour of the European music halls. Miss Chandler has new songs and new gowns. In Europe she was dubbed "The Ragtime Melba." Joseph Santley and company will remain by popular demand. He has new songs and dances, and will be assisted by Ruth Randall and Josephine Kersell. Dainty Marie, "the Venus of the Flying Rings," remains on the bill as a feature. Her success last week has secured for her a long engagement at the Palace. Adelaide and Hughes will remain as the terpsichorean stars, with new dances. A new ventriloquist, the Great Howard, will present a futurist vocal production entitled "At the Doctor's." Carson and Willard, German comedians, will offer their skit "Futter-ein-ein." Harrington and company will do an acrobatic novelty. There will be other excellent features, and all of the warm-weather delights of the Palace, such as free lemonade, free fans, war bears, fresh flowers, and ice-cooled air.

NEW BRIGHTON.—An unusual novelty will be presented at the New Brighton Theatre next week when the musical comedy success "The Quaker Girl" will be seen entire, as part of the vaudeville bill. There will be no advance in prices, and the usual Sunday concerts will be given. "The Quaker Girl," which is being presented by John P. Slocum, has had runs in London, Paris, and New York ranging in years instead of months. Its score is by Lionel Monckton and book by James T. Tanner, while the lyrics are the joint effort of Adrian Ross and Percy Greenbank. The music has been hummed and whistled all over the civilized world. Miss Alblota does acrobatic feats. She will appear with the Anker Brothers in a series of gymnastic stunts. Whittier's Barefoot Boy is a new vaudeville offering in which a young man appears and goes through the various actions of barefoot boyhood. Violinsky has a piano and violin offering.

HAMMERSTEIN'S.—Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre inaugurates its Fall and Winter season, commencing Monday, with a twenty-act bill. Mrs. Robert Fitzsimmons will make her first appearance in the East. Harry Carroll, author of one hundred song hits, will sing some new original, unpublished songs. James G. Morton, late of Morton and Moore, and Ralph Austin, late of Bailey and Austin, in a brand-new act, are also among the features of the bill. "The Girl from the Farm," Joe Jackson, and the Belleclaire Brothers are the only hold-overs. Among the many new faces are Hershel Hendler, the poet pianist; Jack Beaumont and Birdie Arnold; Jarrow, the comedy magician, direct from Germany; Nonette, the violinist; De Haven and Nice, expert dancers; the Deice sisters; Vandamort and Louis, lightning oil painters; the Three Mehlos; Wilbur C. Sweatman, and Zobino.

EDEN MUSEE.—For the past three months the artists, wax men, and carpenters have been working on a large wax tableau entitled "Admiral Fletcher Bombarding Vera Cruz," and as a result the group was opened to the public last Sunday. It shows the firing of the twelve-inch guns from the turrets of the U. S. battleship, with the men, gunners and others, stripped to the waist for action. The kinematocolor natural colored moving pictures, the World in Wax, and the band concerts are attractions.

YALE, NOUGHT-EIGHT, IN THE PLAYHOUSE

That New Haven Class Contributes a Playwright and a Leading Man to the Current Season in the New York Theatres.

THE class of 1908, Yale, has contributed handsomely to the present theatrical season, according to a comparative consultation of the theatrical advertisements and announcements with the voluminous history of the class recently distributed from New Haven. From these it seems that the class contributes a new leading man and a new playwright. The new leading man is Paul Gordon, playing with Molly McIntyre in "Kitty MacKay" at the Comedy Theatre. The new playwright is Charles Robert Housum, author of "Sylvia Runs Away," which William A. Brady will shortly present at The Playhouse.

In the class history Mr. Housum presents this fragment of autobiography for the benefit of his scattered classmates. He writes:

"It was in October, 1908, that I obtained my first job and started in as a cub on The Cleveland Leader, assigned to police reporting. For some months I enlarged my acquaintance and broadened my horizon by constant association with policemen, firemen, ambulance drivers, and criminals, whom I found far better citizens than the muckrakers would lead one to suppose. My term of probation over, I covered general assignments until I was pitched, an unwilling victim, into the arms of the financial editor as his assistant. To my surprise I found that I liked this work and at the same time served as assistant to the dramatic editor.

"In May I went to The Cleveland News, an afternoon newspaper, as financial editor, and while there my first play, written in collaboration with Charles R. Hopkins, Yale, 1907, and begun in college, was produced by a local stock company. The reviews were encouraging enough to strengthen my wish to write for the stage. For a time I continued my newspaper work, returning to The Leader as financial editor and acting as Cleveland correspondent for The Central Banker and The Financial Age. But in September, 1910, I resigned my position to devote most of my time to writing plays. Appendicitis laid me up entirely for about three months, but since that time I have devoted myself principally to learning the playwright's trade and hope ere long to have something tangible to show for my efforts."

The something tangible appears to be the play which Mr. Brady has had up his sleeve for some time past and in which Alice Brady is to appear. It seems from this Yale book that it was originally called "The Girl Who Dared," but "Sylvia Runs Away" sounds like a happier title.

Perhaps some day Mr. Housum will write a play for Mr. Gordon, and then think how Yale pennants could be used for decorating the theatre and how special trains could be run from New Haven for the New York premiere.

ART IS ROUGH.

Or So One Gathered from the Reflections of Mr. Holmes.

To see the genial Taylor Holmes whoop it up through the three fast acts of "The Third Party" and to hear him talk about it afterward is to learn that farce is often a terrible and violent experience. For such a farce, it would seem, the best policy is an accident policy. Mr. Holmes wins his following easily by that magic smile of his, but in between smiles he is banged and struck and thrown about in a most agonizing fashion.

"It is pretty much the real thing," he observed ruefully the other day, as he rubbed himself with solicitude. "In 'The Third Party,' I think, the players ought to be able to collect from the producers under the Workmen's Compensation act. My hands, arms, and body are bruised and scratched. It's peculiar to farce, and little is known beyond the footlights that the players are continually injuring themselves, not seriously, of course, but in such ways that at the end of the week they are able to offer an excellent collection of abrasions and bruises for Sunday's contemplation and nursing.

"You remember the strenuous scene in the first act of 'The Million,' where we discovered that we had won the lottery and through pure joy smashed up the furniture? That scene never went by that two or three of us did not have some sort of a cut from the flying plaster casts. You know the critics always say that you can't have a farce without slamming doors; and, believe me, I wish that one could be written without it, because it always means bruised fingers, for nowadays they build real doors on the stage, and in 'The Million,' as well as in 'The Third Party,' we had our share. 'The Third Party' is easier in this respect, as most of my bruises come from being roughly handled by Walter Jones, and Walter is no welter-weight. If Muldoon ever wants a good trainer I recommend Mr. Jones."

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

Readers of The Times are particularly requested to read the following before sending queries to the Query Department:

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor to answer questions sent to it by The Times readers to the best of its ability.

No answers can be given regarding legal or medical matters, card problems, propriety in dress, correctness of English sentences and values of stamps and coins, nor to questions of a trivial character or of concern only to the questioner.

To receive attention every question must bear the name and address of the person sending it. This does not necessarily mean that the name will be published when the question is answered; only the initials will be used if the questioner so desires. No attention will be paid to queries to which the name and address of the sender are not appended.

Hundreds of letters are received by this department, so that it is obviously impossible to answer all of them immediately. In many cases there must be a certain amount of unavoidable delay.

Liquor Legislation.

S.—Please let me have the text of the Webb-Kenyon Prohibition law, to which frequent references is made in the daily press.

Also the text of the Wilson law passed in 1890, which originated the legislation supplemented by the Webb-Kenyon law five years ago.

The text of the Webb-Kenyon law is as follows:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

"That the shipment or transportation in any manner or by any means whatsoever of any spirituous, vinous, malted, fermented, or other intoxicating liquor of any kind, including beer, ale or wine, from one State, territory or district of the United States, or place noncontiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof into any other State, Territory or district of the United States, or place noncontiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, or from any foreign country into any State, Territory or district of the United States, or place noncontiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, which said spirituous, vinous, malted, fermented, or other intoxicating liquor is intended to be received, possessed, sold, or in any manner used, either in the original package or otherwise, in violation of any law of such State, Territory, or district of the United States, or place noncontiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, enacted in the exercise of the police powers of such State, Territory or district of the United States, or place noncontiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, is hereby prohibited."

The law passed in August, 1890, known as the "Original Package Act," reads as follows:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

"That all fermented, distilled, or intoxicating liquors or liquids transported into any State or Territory or remaining therein for use, consumption, sale, or storage therein, shall upon arrival in such State or Territory be subject to the operation and effect of the laws of such State or Territory enacted in the exercise of its police powers, to the same extent and in the same manner as though such liquids or liquors had been produced in such State or Territory, and shall not be exempt therefrom by reason of being introduced therein in original packages or otherwise."

New Haven Stockholders.

J. W. NEWMAN.—Will you kindly oblige me by letting me know how many stock and bond holders of record the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad has?

The New Haven has 26,700 stockholders, and about a like number of bondholders.

Agricultural Opportunities.

EDWIN H. GROSS.—I desire to assist during the harvesting season on some farm in the State of Oklahoma or Missouri. Will you kindly advise where I may make application and, if the State or Government advances transportation to prospective laborers?

JAMES B. FOX.—Some time ago I think I noticed that there was a movement on foot to furnish harvesting hands for the West. Can you let me know anything in regard to whether the railroad fare is paid or not, and perhaps refer me to some board or organization where we can get the desired information?

D. M.—Can you tell me the name of any person or society to whom I should write regarding the possible market to immigrants of good agricultural lands in the Middle West?

The needs of the West for harvest hands have been met for the present season. It is necessary for applicants for this class of work, when such is needed, to defray their own traveling expenses to one of the various points where the State Commissioners of Agriculture are stationed; from these points the applicants are distributed by the Commissioners to the farmers desiring help. It would be well for any person desiring work of this kind to make early application to, and procure definite assurance of employment from, the proper official in the State to which he wishes to go. The names and addresses of these officials, with any further information desired as to farm work in the West, can be obtained at any time from the Division of Information, United States Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., or from the office of the Department's Immigration Service at the United States Barge Office, Battery Park, New York City.

For information as to lands in the Middle West available to immigrants and prospective settlers, application should be made to the various State Commissioners of Agriculture. The addresses of the Commissioners, in the States where lands are desired, may be obtained, like information about farm work, from the Division of Information, United States Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., or from the Immigration Service of the Department, at the United States Barge Office, Battery Park, New York. These offices will also furnish the applicant, free of charge, with pamphlets offering various kinds of information concerning agricultural lands, work, and opportunities in any State in the Union.

A Rare Adjective.

S. M.—While reading an article I ran across the word "foudroyant." I am unable to find it in the dictionary. Will you kindly tell me what it means?

The adjective "foudroyant" is a rarely used Anglicization of the present participle of the French verb "foudroyer," which means "to strike with lightning." The meaning of "foudroyant" is "sudden and overwhelming in effect; like a lightning stroke." The verb "foudroyer" itself comes from the French "foudre," "lightning."

Henry M. Flagler.

M. L. C.—Is it possible for you to tell me in THE NEW YORK TIMES when H. M. Flagler first went to Florida, how long his first wife has been insane, and when he married his second wife?

Henry M. Flagler went to Florida for the first time in 1885. In May, 1886, he bought the Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and Halifax River Railroad.

Mrs. Ida A. Flagler, who became insane, was the capitalist's second wife. She was committed to a sanitarium in March, 1897, and on Aug. 5, 1899, was declared legally insane. Mr. Flagler obtained a divorce Aug. 14, 1901. He married Miss Mary Lily Kenan, Aug. 22, 1901. His first wife was a Miss Harkness.

Homes for the Aged.

B. G.—Kindly give names and addresses of homes for the aged of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Does each borough have separate homes, or can a member of a Brooklyn Church be admitted to homes in the vicinity of New York? What are the necessary qualifications?

The following homes for the aged are for members of the Protestant Episcopal Church: St. Luke's Home for Aged Women, 114th Street and Broadway; Home for Old Men and Aged Couples, 112th Street and Amsterdam Avenue; Peabody Home for Aged and Indigent Women, West Farms, New York City; "St. Johnland," King's Park, L. I.

The Diocese of Long Island, to which Brooklyn belongs, has a home of its own, and in general members of Brooklyn churches would not be admitted to New York homes. Exceptions might be made, however, and especial inquiry should be made if such an exception is desired.

For the qualifications for admittance to the various homes, inquiry must be made of each.

Collective Nouns.

D. D.—Please tell us which of the following is right: "Possibly you can induce the concern to express their opinion on same," or "Possibly you can induce the concern to express its opinion on same."

A collective noun is singular, and is so parsed. The firm "expresses its opinion." Individual members "express theirs."

"Veni, Vidi, Vici."

C. L. B.—If my memory does not fail me it was Caesar who said, "We came, we saw, we conquered." Will you kindly advise me the Latin text for this quotation and tell me whether or not I am correct in believing that Caesar is responsible for saying this?

"Veni vidi, vici" was the message sent to his friends by Julius Caesar after his victorious first assault upon Pharnaces Ponticus. The statement is, however, made in the singular number: "I came, I saw, I conquered."

The Sulzer Impeachment.

JAMES J. WILSON.—Please let me know through your columns how the Judges of the Court of Appeals voted on the question of removal in the Sulzer impeachment trial.

With the exception of Judge Cullen, who had stood with Sulzer on the preceding roll calls on the impeachment charges, and who was excused from voting on the question of removal, all the Judges of the Court of Appeals voted in favor of Mr. Sulzer's removal from office.

The South Sea Bubble.

J. J. K.—Will you please give me some information as to what is meant by the phrase "South Sea Bubble"?

The South Sea Bubble was a financial speculation in England in the first quarter of the eighteenth century. The South Sea Company was established in 1711, by Lord Treasurer Harley, to provide for the extinction of the national debt, which then amounted to about ten million pounds. The debt was assumed by a number of merchants, under an engagement by the Government to pay 6 per cent. interest for a certain period, securing this sum by making permanent certain import duties. The Government further granted to the purchasers of the fund a monopoly of the trade from Great Britain to the South Sea, or the coast of Spanish America. The company was thus organized under the name of "The South Sea Company."

At that time it was generally believed that Spanish America was a place of fabulous wealth, and although as a matter of fact the South Sea trade yielded little profit, the company flourished, and became so well established and so successful as to rival the Bank of England in controlling the finances of Great Britain. By the year 1720 the national debt of the country amounted to more than thirty million pounds, and in that year the South Sea Company assumed the entire debt, bearing 5 per cent. interest. The British Ministers intended to give a good bargain to the company, but the House of Commons insisted upon opening the scheme for competition between the South Sea Company and the Bank of England, so that in assuming the debt the company was obliged to pay $7,500,000 for the privilege.

This demand handicapped the South Sea Company's finances, but so great was the furore of speculation at that time and so firmly fixed was the belief that the American trade must somehow pay extravagant profits, that the company's prosperity continued and its shares continued to rise in price. The high-water mark was reached when one thousand pounds was paid for a single one-hundred-pound share.

Naturally, the success of the South Sea speculation offered a tempting bait to other speculators; various new bubbles were formed, and the streets near Change Alley in London were half filled with desks—there was not nearly enough office room for the new financial companies. After a time the officials of the South Sea Company demanded investigation of the affairs of several other "bubbles," and public attention was thus turned to the condition of the "South Sea's" own finances. Distrust arose, stocks declined, some of the directors sold out their interest, the failure of Law's Mississippi scheme in Paris was the signal for general investigation and disillusionment, and toward the end of the year 1720 the "South Sea Bubble" burst. The company was ruined, and with it thousands of shareholding families, and the name of the scheme has become a proverb for speculation of the "bubble" sort.

BURLESQUE SEASON ON.

The Columbia and the Murray Hill Are at It Again.

August is half over, and here are some of the burlesque houses in full swing.

"The Golden Crook," a burlesque extravaganza of more than ordinary pretensions, will be seen at the Columbia Theatre this week, commencing tomorrow afternoon. This is said to be one of the most elaborate of the Columbia Amusement Company's offerings. The scenery, costumes, and trick properties follow the lines observed in the productions of extravaganza of former times with the added advantages of present day perfection in electric lighting. There are transformation scenes, trick tables and chairs and huge mechanical animals, such as delighted theatregoers of a decade ago, with their accompaniment of ballet dancers in tarlatan skirts, Amazons in bespangled tights, and grotesque comedians. A long cast of burlesque performers will be seen in the two-act extravaganza, which is called "From Rags to Riches," among them Billy Arlington, Babe La Tour, Nellie Florede, Frank Dobson, Berlin Elliott, and Margaret Daly, and there is a large chorus. A long and varied vaudeville bill will be given during the progress of the extravaganza, in which the principals of the organization will be seen in their respective specialties.

The Murray Hill Theatre opened last night with a brand-new burlesque show called "The Girls from the Follies," and this attraction will be continued throughout the present week. A large company of entertainers, headed by Harry Steppe, a Hebrew comedian of more than ordinary ability, succeeds in keeping the spectators in a happy frame of mind throughout the performance, and the scenery and costumes combine to satisfy the burlesque eye. In the cast, besides Mr. Steppe are Charles Quinn, Vesta Lockard, Gertrude Balston, Forrest G. Wyre, Jessie Quinn, Annie Goldie, Marie Revere, Harry Fisher, and William Harris. During the Summer the Murray Hill has been entirely renovated and redecorated.

Also last night Hurtig & Seamon's new theatre in Harlem opened with Max Spiegel's "Winning Widows" company.

ASBURY PARK CHAUTAUQUA.

New Feature Attracts Many to Resort—Carnival Selections.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 15.—Though June and July were discouraging months here, August has brought the usual throngs and mid-season tonight finds the resort filled with visitors. The approaching carnival events have attracted many sojourners, and late vacationists are arriving for their regular stay here.

Chautauqua week opened here Thursday. It is a brand-new entertainment feature for Asbury Park. A big tent has been pitched on an ocean front plot, where afternoon concerts and lectures are given. In the evening there are band concerts and other musical events.

The week will conclude next Wednesday with a lecture by Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, Col.

The selection of two more maids for the Court of Titanis, the Carnival Queen, was announced by the Carnival Commissioners today. They are Miss Louise Ward Roebling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Roebling of 680 St. Nicholas Avenue, New York, and Miss Estelle Vander Roest of 10 Orchard Street, Newark, N. J. They are rehearsing with the other maids and the royal princesses for the coronation ceremonies in the Ocean Grove Auditorium on Friday night, Aug. 21.

A New Mrs. Nettleton.

Marta Oatman will enter the cast of "A Pair of Sixes" tomorrow evening, succeeding Ivy Troutman in the role of Mrs. Nettleton, the jealous wife. Miss Oatman is a Californian who, during the present Summer, has been taking a course in English literature and playwrighting at Columbia University. She has played in "Little Women," "The Havoc," "The Gamblers," and other plays of recent years, and for a few months she was with the Harlem Opera House Stock Company.

OF CURRENT INTEREST IN THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

GOOD RUN TO THE BERKSHIRE COUNTRY

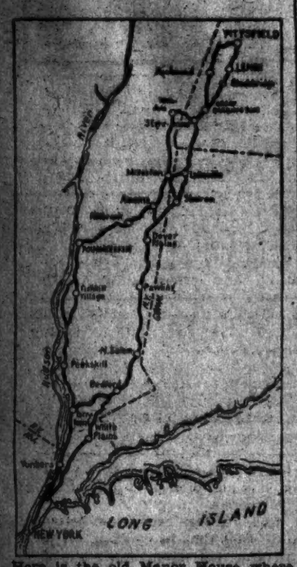
Touring Bureau of the Three A's Gives Route with Historic Interest Points.

ROAD CONDITIONS FINE

The Hudson, the Westchester Hills and the Fertile Up-Country Beautify the Way.

Although less majestic than the Catskills, the Berkshire Hills in Western Massachusetts are more frequented by automobile tourists because of the excellent roads and hotel accommodations and the beautiful, if less rugged, scenery. The heart of the Berkshires is reached in a comfortable one-day drive of about 150 miles from New York, and the return trip made in the same time. There are several routes, but the one described below is recommended highly by the touring information bureau of the American Automobile Association, because of the road conditions.

Of the several ways to reach Poughkeepsie from New York, the following is by far the most used, is the shortest and most interesting. Leaving over Broadway or Riverside Drive, the latter affording fine views of the Hudson and its palisades, Yonkers, but thirteen miles distant, is reached in quick time.



Here is the old Manor House where Washington courted pretty Mary Phillipse. Erected in 1683, it has been used in latter years as a city hall, but is now a museum, with many Revolutionary antiquities.

In the outskirts of Dobbs Ferry, a few miles to the north, is a stone tablet marking the spot where Washington had headquarters in 1781. Nearby are the Ardsley Club and the old Livermore mansion. At Irvington may be seen Sunnyside, the home of Washington Irving. Tarrytown, twenty-five miles from New York, teems with historic associations. Here a monument commemorates the capture of Andre in 1780. In the cemetery of Christ Church, where Irving was a warden, lie the remains of the great author, in Sleepy Hollow, which he made famous. A few miles to the east are the Pocantico Hills, where John D. and William Rockefeller have feudal estates. Other homes of wealth cluster roundabout.

Approaching Ossining, one sees to the left on the bank of the Hudson the great Sing Sing prison. At Croton the motorist again comes in sight of the Hudson and has a glimpse of Haverstraw on the opposite bank nearly four miles away. Peekskill, a little over forty miles from New York, was named for the brook which flows into the Hudson near by. From here one may follow the new State road, nearly complete, which threads its way through the Westchester hills, or take the more tortuous river road with some hair-raising curves through Cold Spring and Fishkill, rejoining the State road at Wappingers Falls.

Leave Poughkeepsie toward the southeast on Main Street, shortly passing, on the left, the old De Witt Clinton Mansion, recalling Colonial days. At the blacksmith shop take the left fork and follow a fine road through Pleasant Valley and Washington Hollow to Millbrook, a little village set in a group of magnificent country estates, one of the most conspicuous being Daheim, the stone gateway of which is noted at the turn of the road leaving town.

The road is good through Mabbettsville and Lithgo, but one must exercise caution in descending the yet unimproved and steep hill into Amenia. This is the centre of the iron ore district, where one may choose between the route by way of Millerton and that through Sharon, both reaching Lakeville in the northwest corner of Connecticut. Going via Sharon gives an opportunity of viewing picturesque Lake Wononscopomoc.

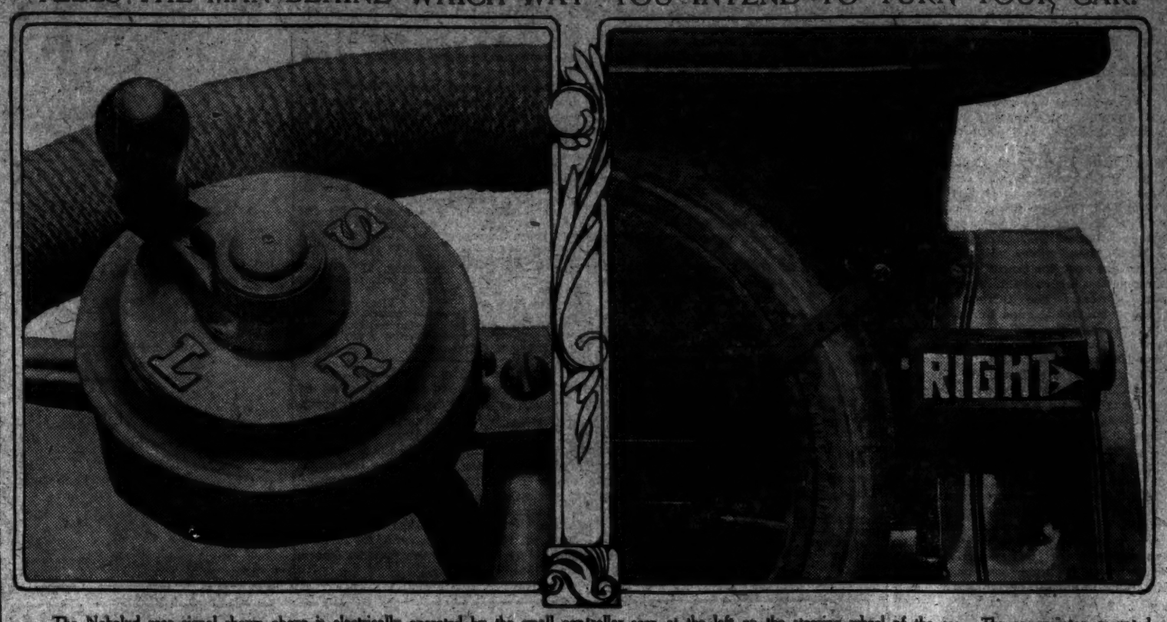
Taking the fork at the monument in Salisbury, the tourist soon enters Massachusetts, when the Berkshires loom large ahead, Mount Everett on the left attaining an elevation of 2,627 feet.

Leaving Pittsfield over South Street, pass the Country Club at the end of the trolley line and retrace the route over a fine road to Lenox. Or, by way of variety, leave by West Housatonic Street and drive through Shaker Village, Richmond, West Stockbridge and Rockvale Mills to Great Barrington. Among the show places at Lenox is Shadowbrook, on beautiful Lake Mahkeenac, or Stockbridge Bowl. Turning right at Great Barrington on Maple Street, follow the up route through South Egremont, Salisbury, and Lakeville to Millerton. Or continue south through Lakeville past Lake Wononscopomoc to Sharon, a delightful Connecticut village, and rejoin the main line at Amenia.

At Amenia keep straight ahead through Dover Plains and South Dover in the iron ore district on Ten Mile River, which follow to Pawling. The old meeting house on Quaker Hill at Pawling was used as a hospital during the Revolution. Below Pawling turn right off the straight road and proceed through Patterson to Carmel, the seat of Drew Seminary and birthplace of Daniel Drew. A turn to the right out of Carmel leads to Lake Mahopac, largest of the highland lakes which make up the New York City water system and famous as a Summer resort, with beautiful drives in all directions.

From this point a variety of routes is available. One may go to Briarcliff and Tarrytown on the Hudson; or may continue on the interior route through the Westchester hills past the old farm at Chappaqua, where Horace Greeley spent his days of rest and recuperation, and down to White Plains, to which historic point Washington retired after being forced out of Manhattan by the overwhelming forces of Howe. From White Plains you may drive through ancient Tuckahoe and modern Bronxville to Mount Vernon, and, following the old White Plains Road, Bronx Park, with its varied attractions, and the Grand Concourse into the heart of Greater New York.

TELLS THE MAN BEHIND WHICH WAY YOU INTEND TO TURN YOUR CAR.



The Nokolyd rear signal shown above is electrically operated by the small controller seen at the left on the steering wheel of the car. The annunciator, mounted on the right hand rear mudguard, as shown in the picture on the right, shows at the will of the driver blank, "stop," "right," and "left." In daylight the signals show in different colored letters and backgrounds; at night, dark on white.

PRESS OUT BODIES AND AUTO FENDERS

New Processes Make It Easy to Use Sheet Steel and Get the Desired Appearance.

Streamline bodies and crowned fenders were not used on automobiles until within the last year or so, for the simple reason that nobody knew how to make them, according to E. W. Headington, branch manager here of one of the automobile companies. The most logical material from which to build bodies, in his opinion, is sheet steel, but the difficulty comes in obtaining the desired curves and general contour. The first sheet steel bodies were laboriously worked up and shaped by hand with the aid of small power hammers and foot presses. The metal would be thin at one curve and unduly thick at another, so that the results were generally unsatisfactory.

"In keeping with the history of the automobile industry," said Mr. Headington last week, "improvements have come rapidly, and now the bodies are formed in gigantic presses. Any desired curve or streamline effect may be obtained by merely altering the shape of the dies of the press. The long, sweeping lines are pressed into the steel under great pressure, and there is no hammering out at any point in order to develop the curves. Consequently, the steel is of uniform thickness and strength at all points. All joints are electrically welded at the doors, so that the finished body is actually composed of a single piece of sheet steel without seams. A light construction is obtained in combination with the desired rigidity.

"Following the success of the streamline body, came the first crowned fenders. These are being pressed out in dies, but the chief objection to the process is that a heavy gauge steel must be used to make a durable fender. The latest practice is to roll the crown into the fender by passing the shaped fender between concave and convex rollers. Medium gauge steel can be used, which not only becomes very rigid on account of the arched effect of the crown, but materially aids in reducing the total weight of the car."

Automobile Clocks in Germany.

Many automobiles sold in the Breslau district in Germany come from the manufacturers already fitted with a clock, the buyer having so ordered. The best customers for American keyless clocks would therefore be the motor car manufacturers in Germany. There is also a fair sale of clocks by dealers in automobile accessories. The clocks are generally round, but some are square and others octagonal. The cases usually are of brass, but often nickel plated. The cheaper timepieces run thirty-six hours without winding; the better ones eight days. Most of those sold in this district are wound with a loose key; others have a non-detachable key, and still others are rim winding.

DOUBTFUL MOTOR MARKET IN SYRIA

U. S. Consul General Reports, However, That American Cars Are in Second Place.

BUS LINE FOR LEBANON

English Firm Plans Motor Freight Service in the Syrian Littoral —Hilly Country.

Up to the Spring of this year there was practically no automobile trade in Beirut, although three or four motor cars have been purchased each year by residents of Beirut who were traveling in Egypt or on the Continent. The roads are poor, reports W. Stanley Hollis, United States Consul General, stationed at Beirut, and until within a few months ago there were no facilities for making repairs.

"The few automobiles which have been sold with delivery at Beirut have been sold by local commission agents," Mr. Hollis writes, "generally from catalogues, although the purchasers were usually familiar with the car purchased through having seen it in their travels. There are at present 27 motor cars owned here, of which 15 are French, 5 American, 3 German, 3 English, and 1 Italian. Many of these have been bought second-hand, at prices ranging from $1,150 to $4,250.

"During the past month steps have been taken by two different concerns to push the sale of automobiles. An Italian company has just sent an agent here with a sample car, and this agent has already taken orders for three cars, which have been sold on a credit basis. In order to handle this credit business satisfactorily the company is now forming a subsidiary local automobile and taxicab company, with a capital of $19,300. This company intends to start with a few taxicabs, and will run an autobus service between Beirut, Aleih, Sofar, and way stations in the Lebanon Mountains.

"Another concern, general exporters and importers of London, has opened up a branch office here and is sending two men out in a light English car to explore the road between Bagdad and Beirut, with the object of starting a motor freight and passenger service to one of the principal Syrian railway terminals—perhaps Damascus or Aleppo. This concern also intends to open a garage, repair and supply shop, and an automobile salesroom here. It intends by issue, in conjunction with the Prince Steamship Line, through bills of lading on freight shipped from English and other ports to Bagdad and to interior places lying on the route between the Syrian littoral and Bagdad. This firm represents a large American motor company, as well as three English firms. Three specially constructed motor trucks, made by an English firm, have already been ordered and will be placed in service on arrival.

"The activity of these new firms may stimulate the demand for automobiles, but a careful investigation has shown many factors which would militate against any general use of motor vehicles here."

Studebaker

Studebaker Sales—The Proof of National Prosperity

On the day this advertisement is being written—Friday, August 14th—

The Studebaker Corporation is 2285 cars behind orders for immediate delivery—and yet—160 Studebakers are being shipped every day.

In the first two weeks in August, 1128 dealers and sub-dealers from New England, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania; Virginia, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, and the Pacific Coast, came to Studebaker distributing points—

And drove away 1128 Studebaker cars.

In the first two weeks in August, two train loads of Studebakers—one of 46 freight cars—each car containing 4 automobiles—and one of 60 freight cars were shipped to Chicago.

And these cars are going out not merely for display in dealers show rooms, but to meet actual and insistent orders from individual buyers.

Between noon and four o'clock of the day this is being written, fifteen Studebaker distributors have telegraphed—not for a specific number of cars, but for—

As many cars as they can get immediately.

Every mail—every click of the telegraph piles up Studebaker orders—and records popular approval of Studebaker cars—and popular confidence in the permanency of national prosperity.

And this is August—usually the laggard month in motor car sales.

For four months the American people have had the prophecy and promise of stupendous crops.

This is the realization.

Today—and for a year or years perhaps—the United States must feed Europe. Providentially we have been allowed to rise to this tremendous emergency. Nature has never been more lavish to this country.

And it is entirely logical that the Studebaker Corporation—with sixty-two years of good name and good manufacture and good will behind it—should be, among the great representative institutions of the country, the first to feel the impetus of national prosperity and national confidence restored.

This unquestionably will be the biggest year, the most prosperous year the Studebaker Corporation has ever known.

The prices of the new Studebaker cars—$985 for the five-passenger "Four" and $1385 for the "Six"—have met with a popular response even more enthusiastic than we had anticipated.

We believe that the Studebaker course—in offering unequaled Studebaker Motor Car Quality at prices impossible without the volume of Studebaker production; and the completeness of Studebaker manufacture would have received tremendous national endorsement at any season of the year, or any stage of national prosperity.

But such remarkable Studebaker sales as these, such proof of national optimism, and prosperity must be interpreted as of even greater significance.

This demonstration—country-wide—means more than confirmation of Studebaker hopes, policies, plans and ideals.

It means that big crops have turned the tide; that all we American people are today blessed with an abundance and an opportunity such as no world's people before has ever had.

And it is very good these days to be an American.

DOINGS AND SAYINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE WORLD

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REALTY FIELD

Loans of $1,250,000 Obtained by Owners on Brooks Brother's New Building Site.

RUTGERSCHURCH IN MARKET

Sixth Avenue Building in Trade for Brooklyn Property—Suburban Buyers.

Title passed yesterday to the plot on the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and Forty-fourth Street from Thomas B. Hidden to the Riverbrook Realty Corporation. The plot is 85.5 by 111.8 feet, and on the site will be erected the new ten-story building for the clothing firm of Brooks Bros., long located at Broadway and Twentieth Street.

At the same time the mortgage of $1,000,000 was recorded, which the new owners have obtained from the Prudential Insurance Company as a building loan for the new structure. This is to run for five years at 5½ per cent. from Aug. 14, 1914. An additional mortgage of $250,000 has been obtained by the owners from the Guaranty Trust Company for twenty years from Aug. 14 at 6 per cent.

Rutgers Church in Market.

The Rutgers Presbyterian Church property on the southwest corner of Broadway and Seventy-third Street, regarding which negotiations for its purchase were said to be pending some time ago, is definitely on the market. The asking price is $850,000. The plot is 106.10 by 137.11 feet and irregular, adjoining the St. Andrews Hotel. The church has been without a pastor for over a year.

Sixth Avenue Building in Trade.

The three-story business building at 96 Sixth Avenue, covering a plot 23.9 by 80 feet, adjoining the southeast corner of Eighth Street, has been sold by the Brown-Weiss Realties to Alice Fox, figuring in a deal whereby the latter sold to the Brown-Weiss Realties eleven six-family houses at 1,954 to 1,996 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn. The Sixth Avenue property was given in part payment. L. Covert was the broker in the transaction.

Tenement Sales.

The five-story double flat with stores at 10 East 114th Street, adjoining the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue, has been resold by the Maseba Realty Company to Samuel and Rose Pilscheck for investment. The lot is 25 by 100. The sellers took title to the property about two months ago. Simon Myers was the broker.

The five-story tenement at 204 and 206 Hester Street, on plot 40 by 60, has been sold by S. Miglionicu for Anthony Santulli to a client for investment.

Bronx Borough.

John A. Steinmetz has sold for the Obark Realty Company the five-story flat at 871 East 179th Street, on plot 50 by 100, to Julius and Estelle M. Zink, and for the same company the five-story flat at 2,079 Daly Avenue, on plot 31 by 114, to Marie Krabo; also for Charles Harlow the single-family house at 1,471 Commonwealth Avenue, on plot 25 by 95, to F. W. Cranford, and has effected an exchange of ten lots on Commonwealth Avenue for the River Realty Company, which took the two-family brick house at 1,419 Porter Avenue.

Home Buyers in Newark.

Charles P. Taylor, President of the Newark Board of Education, has purchased, through Feist & Feist, the two-and-a-half-story residence at 75 Baldwin Avenue, on a plot 50 by 111, just north of Clinton Avenue. The same brokers have also sold to George Stickel the two-family dwelling at 59 and 61 Beverly Street, west of Fabyan Place, occupying a plot fronting 50 feet.

Brooklyn.

George H. Wales has purchased from the Alco Building Company the property at 1,942 Sixty-fifth Street.

Long Island.

E. S. Willard & Co. have sold for the Cocks Realty Company about fifty-two acres at Brookville to James F. Meagher of Chicago, who proposes to build a residence on the property. It is near the Piping Rock Club and adjoins property recently sold by the same brokers to Montague Flagg.

Dwellings Leased.

Samuel H. Martin has leased the three-story dwelling at 189 West sixty-third Street to Edith J. Betts, and the four-story dwellings at 146 and 148 West Sixty-fifth Street to Jose Y. Rabelle.

The Houghton Company has leased for the Dr. Richards Dyspeptic Tablets Association the four-story dwelling at 453 West Fifty-seventh Street to Hanna Nystrom.

John J. Kavanagh has leased for Charles Gulden to Roland Holt 44 East Seventy-eighth Street, a four-story dwelling.

Fish & Marvin have rented for C. J. Cornell his house on the Bronxville Road at Bronxville to H. H. Cook.

The Louis Becker Company has leased for the Hudson Trust Company the three-story dwelling at 558 West 161st Street to Charles A. Todtman.

Newark Loft Leased.

Feist & Feist have leased for Samuel Katz to the Star Rubber Company of New York, of which Rowland Downing is manager, the brick store and loft building at 270 Halsey Street, between William and Pearl Streets, on a plot 25 by 100 feet. The lessees are jobbers in automobile tires, and will open a branch there.

BARGE CANAL TERMINALS.

Two Locations Offered by Long Island Business Men.

The business interests of Queens have received information from the State Engineer's office that gives reasonable assurance that the proposition of locating two of the terminals of the barge canal for New York City within the boundaries of Queens Borough is being given favorable consideration by the State barge canal officials.

A hearing was held at the office of the Borough President several months ago, and at this meeting, which was attended by State Engineer Walter Bensel, owners of large enterprises in the borough presented arguments in favor of the borough. It has been learned that the arguments then advanced have placed Long Island City almost surely in the way of receiving one of the terminals. It will be located either in the Dutchkills Basin or on Bowery Bay.

There is much doubt about the site for the second terminal. This week a movement was started to make forceful presentations to the State officials of the claims of Flushing and its vicinity to the second terminal. Business men of Flushing, College Point, Whitestone, Jamaica, and Richmond Hill are included in this movement.

The Flushing Business Men's Association has taken the lead in the agitation and presentation of the claims of this, and the President of that organization, George W. Pople, last week appointed a committee to conduct the campaign. The committee appointed is composed of Maynard H. Spear of the New York and Queens Gas Company, Albert E. Sholes of Flushing, James H. Quinlan, a real estate representative; A. C. Sluiter, head of the Queens Retail Butchers' Association; Ira L. Terry, an insurance broker; John Adikes, a merchant of Jamaica, and Philip Bach, a large real estate owner.

The services of engineers will be engaged by this committee and plans and maps will be prepared which will accurately describe the advantages of the proposed locality. Some of the State officials will be brought to Flushing to make a personal inspection.

JULY BUILDING RECORD.

Shows a Substantial Gain Over July of Last Year.

Later returns to Bradstreet's Journal of building expenditures in the United States during July do not materially alter the preliminary showing made last week, which pointed to a slight decrease from June, but a good-sized gain over the month of July last year.

With 141 cities of the United States reporting for the month of July, a grand total expenditure for building is had of $81,024,338, as against $83,375,396 in June and $76,186,832 in July a year ago.

There is here shown a decrease of 2.8 per cent. from June, but a gain of 6.3 per cent. over July last year, with 88 out of 141 cities showing increases over the corresponding month of 1913. In June, it might be recalled, the gain over the like period a year ago was 3 per cent., and with the gain in March of 2.6 per cent., this gives three months of the past seven showing gains over the like periods of 1913.

The total expenditure for building for seven months aggregates $514,670,399, a decrease of 5.7 per cent. from a year ago, which, in turn, showed a decrease of 4 per cent. from 1912.

It is worth noting that the fairly good showing made by building as a whole in July was accomplished despite decreases at New York City. Thus, the total expenditures in the greater city for July fell 11.5 per cent. below those of June and 7.6 per cent. below July a year ago. Or, to put it in another way, with New York excluded building expenditures at 140 cities were 9.6 per cent. larger than in July last year, while less than 1 per cent. below June.

Canadian building expenditures in July aggregated $9,893,376, an increase of 7.6 per cent. over both June this year and July a year ago.

New $40,000 Public School.

The annual meeting of the School Trustees of the Union Free School District No. 10 of the Township of Hempstead, Nassau County, was held last week at Baldwin, L. I. The Trustees appointed a committee of three, consisting of Charles L. Wheeler, C. M. Van Tassell, and M. Massey, to arrange for the preparing of plans and specifications and to receive estimates for a new school to be erected at Baldwin Harbor, at a cost of $40,000.

The school site, which is 250 by 300 feet, is at Church Street and Grand Boulevard, and was purchased recently from the Baldwin Harbor Realty Company, which controls about 670 acres at Baldwin Harbor. Plans are also being prepared for a new casino to be erected on their property.

Regulations in Moving Buildings.

Various conditions are imposed upon those desiring to move buildings. Often it is necessary to obtain consents of the adjacent property owners. Usually it is forbidden to move frame buildings within the fire limits. The grantee must file a bond with the city as security against damage to the city or other property. In some cities the moving must be done by regularly licensed house movers. In Greater New York the several Borough Presidents are authorized to grant permits for moving buildings through or across public highways. A penalty of $250 is imposed in cases of violation of the ordinance requiring the obtaining of permits.

NEW BUILDINGS IN RETAIL DISTRICT SHOW SUBSTANTIAL COMMERCIAL GROWTH

Imposing Structure Planned for Fortieth Street Opposite Library—Madison Avenue Improvements Near Thirty-fourth Street—Tenants Readily Found For New Space—Stores in Good Demand.

IN the filing of plans last week for the twenty-story office building on the south side of Fortieth Street, opposite the Public Library, attention was again prominently directed to the building activity in that locality within the past year. A noteworthy feature with this, as well as most of the other recent operations, is that they have been well managed in obtaining several large tenants before the completion or even starting of the work.

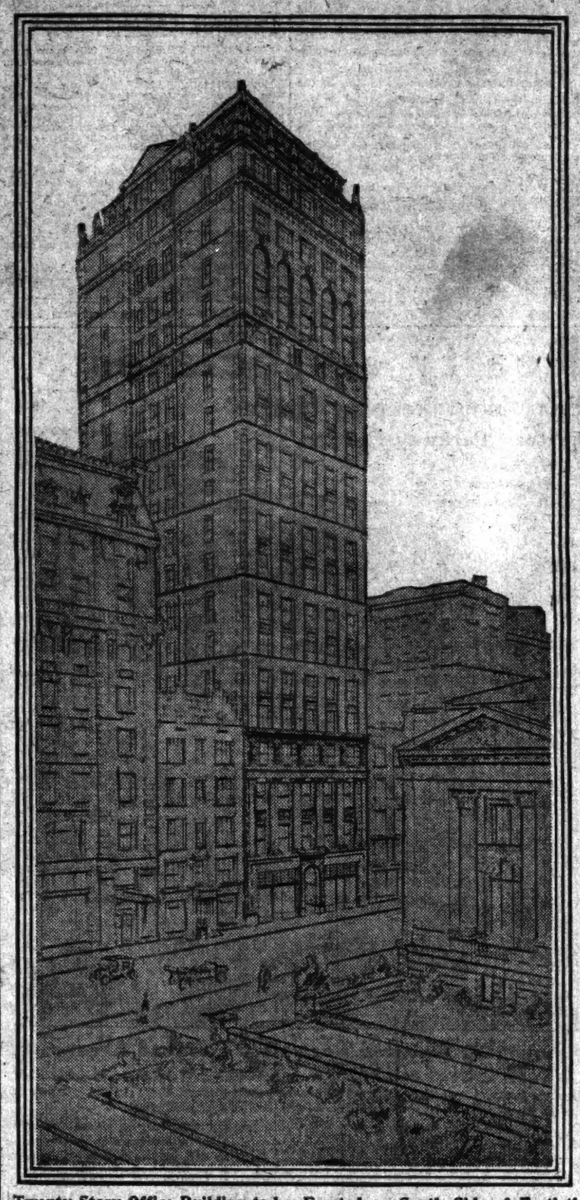
The Fortieth Street building, as announced a short time ago, will be the future headquarters of the Frank Munsey publications and executive offices, taking three or four floors. The architects, Starrett & Van Vleck, will occupy the top floor. The building will be an imposing addition to that part of the retail district, and, facing the Library and Bryant Park, will enjoy exceptional advantages of light and air.

Work will begin next month, when the existing leases on the three altered structures at 6, 8, and 10 West Fortieth Street expire. The site has a frontage of 61.10 feet. The cost is estimated at $500,000. Jesse Metcalf is President of the building company, known as the 8 West Fortieth Street Corporation. It will not be ready for occupancy before next Spring or early in the Summer, so it will not figure in the leasing market for occupancy next February.

All the brokers in the uptown loft section look for a very satisfactory and thoroughly normal season during the coming renting months. The business renting activity is just beginning, but next month and in October will be at its height. There was considerable uncertainty during the first week of the European war as to its effect upon business, but a thorough canvass of the loft section by the leading brokers elicited the statements yesterday that every one felt easier. Frederick Fox, Albert B. Ashforth, Carstein & Linnekin, Pease & Elliman, and other brokers active in the commercial retail and loft zone all agreed that the renting season outlook appeared very bright.

"The demand for stores and lofts below Thirty-third Street is normal," said Frederick Fox; "between Thirty-fourth and Forty-second Streets it is above normal, and above Forty-second Street, in the side streets which have been converted into private shops of a special and exclusive character, store space is exceedingly difficult to get. Except in the case of some importers who are vitally dependent upon their foreign markets, all the merchants are going right ahead with their plans. So far as the real estate brokers can judge, there is going to be nothing in the nature of a slump."

Besides the new Fortieth Street building, which can virtually be called a Fifth Avenue operation, there are three other big buildings going up on the avenue—the new Rogers-Peet Building at Forty-first Street, the eight-story Goelet Building on the southwest corner of Thirty-seventh Street, and the extensive addition to the Bonwit-Teller Building, on the southwest corner of Thirty-eighth Street.



Twenty Story Office Building to be Erected on South Side of Fortieth Street Near Fifth Avenue. Starrett & Van Vleck, Architects.

In the Thirty-fourth Street locality the completion of the Altman store addition on Madison Avenue is perhaps the most important operation there, viewed from the commercial effect it is expected to exert upon Madison Avenue. It will give Madison Avenue a retail frontage of an entire block, something which it has never had in that vicinity, and will doubtless increase the retail activity on the block below.

The Burrell Building, on the northeast corner of Thirty-third Street and Madison Avenue, is one of the present year's additions to the big structures there. This is solely an office building, permitting no manufacturing, as allowed in most of the other modern structures on the avenue. Opened in February, the Loton H. Slawson Company has rented over three-fourths of its space. Just to the east, on the north side of Thirty-third Street, is a new loft. There are two new ones in Thirty-second Street, the larger being the Seaich Building, on the south side, and on the south side of Thirty-first Street work is progressing rapidly on another immense structure.

Westward, in the Fifth Avenue section, the largest operation is the Waldorf Building, covering a big frontage on Thirty-third Street opposite the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, with an entrance on Thirty-second Street. It will not be ready for occupancy, however, before Spring. One of its largest tenants will be the wholesale millinery firm of James G. Johnson & Co., long associated with the millinery centre in the Broadway and Bleecker Street locality. Thus far there has been no tendency on the part of the other big millinery firms to move uptown, as had been expected by some when the Johnson firm decided to leave the old quarters.

One of the projected operations in this section has been temporarily postponed—the Goelet operation, on the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and Twenty-eighth Street, adjoining the Emmet Building. The old houses on the Goelet corner were torn down some time ago, but the vacant corner has just been boarded up. As it was too late to complete the building for February occupancy, it was decided to suspend operations until next Spring. At present it is planned to have the building ready for use by February, 1916.

While there have been many rumors regarding the future use of the Colony Club site, adjoining the northwest corner of Thirtieth Street, nothing definite has yet been done for the sale of the property.

OBJECT TO FIRE ESCAPES.

Builders Say They Are Not Necessary on Two-Story Structures.

The Ridgewood Heights Improvement Association, composed of builders, developers, and property owners in that particular section of the Borough of Queens, have decided to test in the courts the right of the Tenement House Department to enforce one of its rules requiring the placing of fire escapes on two-story houses.

It is claimed that the minimum of risk is assumed by the people in these houses, for not only are the windows and doors but a short distance from the ground, but in nearly every house of this character there are entrances both back and front for tenants of the second floors.

Appeal has been made to the records of the Fire Department, and it has been found out that throughout the city the number of deaths from fire in houses of this character has been very few, and in nearly every case where there has been a casualty, fire escapes on the house would not have acted as preventives.

It is further declared that if this regulation can be enforced, then the building bureaus in the several boroughs will be enabled to make and enforce regulations compelling the owners of all two-story houses to put up fire escapes on their dwellings.

Asks for Protection.

Nash Rockwood, who recently bought for the No. 1,482 Broadway Corporation from the Godan-Wimmer Building Company all the stock and bonds of that corporation, as he supposed free and clear of incumbrance, has asked Judge Lacombe of the District Court to modify the order confirming the sale so as to protect him against the lien of a blanket mortgage for $700,000 given by the Coe estate and covering that and other real estate.

Judge Lacombe denied the motion to modify the sale order, with leave to renew it when the notice of the motion is accompanied with a form of order proposed to take the place of the new one now on file.

Improved Mail Service.

The opening of the new postal tube mail service direct from the Pennsylvania Terminal under the East River to Long Island on Aug. 3 has already manifested itself by the saving of from eight to ten hours in the delivery of mail from Manhattan. The effect has been most noticeable in the north shore sections in the vicinity of Douglaston and Little Neck.

Laws Affecting Realty.

The following are some of the laws which have been enacted in a recent session of the Legislature in New York:

Chapter 309, Laws 1914—Requires that the street number of the residence of purchasers shall be indicated on all papers recording the transfer of property.

Chapter 448, Laws 1914—Authorizes the Commissioner of Docks to establish all needful rules and regulations for the government and care of property along the waterfront.

Chapter 452, Laws 1914—Which allows a summons to be served in place of an arrest for violation of the Fire Department regulations.

Chapter 455, Laws 1914—Putting traffic regulations in the hands of the Police Commissioner.

Chapter 459, Laws 1914—In relation to the better prevention of fires by which the Fire Commissioner is authorized to enforce regulations of the State Industrial Board and the State Department of Labor with respect to the better prevention of fires.

Building Homes in Queens.

A large number of plans for detached frame buildings were filed in the Building Bureau of Queens last week. Seventeen two-story dwellings will be erected by Frank L. Ferguson on Fulton Street, west of Max Weber Avenue, and on the latter avenue north of Fulton Street, at a cost of $42,500; Albert Lipps will erect five two and a half story dwellings at Blanco Place, east of Remington Street, Jamaica, at a cost of $15,000; G. M. Elliman will erect several dwellings at Hollis, at a cost of $3,000 each, and Lashen Brothers will erect seven two and a half story dwellings on Pierson Street, west of Jeffrey Avenue, Jamaica, at a cost of $18,200.

Long Island Property at Auction.

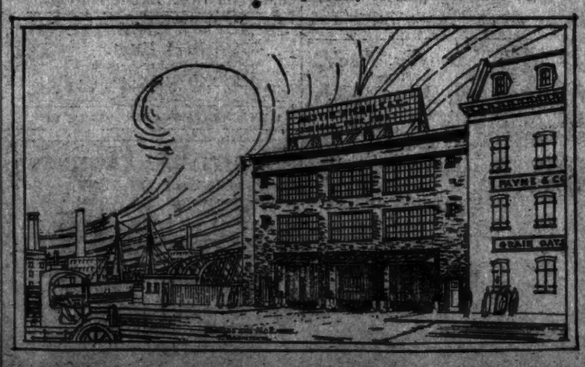
Bryan L. Kennelly will sell in the Vesey Stret Salesroom next Wednesday four building plots at Oakdale, L. I., on the south side of Merrick Road, opposite the railroad station. On Saturday, Aug. 29, he will sell on the premises at Amityville the country residence known as Breezy Point, on the west side of Clock's Boulevard.

NEW EAST HARLEM WAREHOUSE

The proposition to establish a municipal market on the plaza at 129th Street and Third Avenue, adjoining the approach of the Third Avenue Bridge, was given fresh impetus last week by the announcement that Austin, Nichols & Co., wholesale grocers, would break ground in the course of a few days for the erection of a three-story warehouse.

The site of the new warehouse, plans for which have been drawn by Hopkins & McEntee, is on the north side of 129th Street, adjoining the Third Avenue Bridge approach on the east. The market site joins the approach on the west.

A member of the Market Committee of the East Harlem Improvement Association, which has made every possible effort to secure the market for East Harlem, said yesterday that he had received assurances from city officials that the site was looked upon with favor, and that the market would probably be established this Fall.



Building to be Erected by Austin Nichols & Co., on Site Adjoining the Proposed Municipal Market at 129th Street and 3d Avenue.

PUSHING SUBWAY WORK.

Contract Soon to be Let for 42d Street Connecting Lines.

Edward E. McCall, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, stated last week that there will be no cessation in the work of completing the dual subway system as rapidly as possible.

"With so many parts of the system nearing completion or under contract, it is vital that the remaining portions should be constructed at the earliest moment," he said. "It is essential that not a moment's time shall be lost on such connections as the Grand Central diagonal station, William Street, Nassau Street, and Willoughby Street, Brooklyn. There are now engaged on the work upward of 11,000 men."

Next Friday the commission will meet to advertise for bids for the construction of routes 43 and 26, and the diagonal station at Forty-second Street, connecting the Lexington Avenue Subway with the existing Subway at the Grand Central Station. The bids will be opened Sept. 11. This is one of the most important contracts to be let. The contract has been sent to the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, the operating company, for criticisms and suggestions, and will be returned within a few days, when it will be put in permanent form by the commission.

The entire work must be completed within twenty-eight months from the signing of the contract. The commission's engineers state that the construction of this connection will present many new engineering features, and that it will be one of the most difficult problems in the dual system. This contract extends from points in Park Avenue near Thirty-eighth and Forty-first Streets (tracks connecting with the present Subway at both of these points) north under Park Avenue and the Grand Union Hotel property to the north line of Forty-second Street; also, at a lower level east under Forty-second Street to about 100 feet east of Lexington Avenue to a connection with the Steinway tunnel, which will connect the Forty-second Street section with Queens Borough.

On the recommendation of Commissioner George V. S. Williams, the commission has ordered the Long Island Railroad Company to build a new passenger station on the south side of South Street, Jamaica, on the Old Southern Division of the railroad. The new station must be completed and ready for use by Nov. 1.

READ YOUR LEASE.

Some Leases Have a Clause That Mortgages Your Furniture.

Some real estate leases are such formidable-looking documents that not a few persons taking them will not take the time or make an effort to read them so as to thoroughly understand the document to which they are affixing their names. They are quite apt to take it for granted that it is all right, anyway. But it really is important that this indenture receive more than a glance. Papers that enter into various agreements, contracts of sale, mortgages, building contracts, &c., are all complex, but none is more so than the average dwelling house or apartment house lease. In fact, in some cities they are regarded as "brain tangling," and becoming more and more so. Not many persons are aware of the fact that leases of flats in the city have a chattel clause inserted that places the tenant at the mercy of the landlord if he cannot pay the rent.

This chattel clause is mixed in with the dozens of "ifs" and "buts," which have always taxed common sense to capacity in fathoming accurately their purpose and intent, until the reading of a lease of that character is as irksome as puzzling. Up to within a short time whenever a tenant could not pay his rent and decided to move, or was ordered out by his landlord, he could get out and take his possessions with him, but now, in certain cities, he moves just the same, but leaves behind him the furniture and furnishings of his home.

These chattels are put in storage there to remain at the expense of the owner until he pays the rent bill, the storage bill, cartage, and any other incidental expense the landlord sees fit to tack on. In view of these things it certainly is not cheaper to move than pay rent in New York, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Chicago, and some other places where the chattel form of lease has come into a partial use.

By the wording of the lease which contains the chattel clause the tenant relinquishes to the landlord and owner the furniture and furnishings the very minute the goods are installed in the house or apartment. He has signed the document and that document goes on record. And this pledge also is signed in the presence of a Notary before it goes in record.

Such conditions are not found in leases that are negotiated in this city or State unless the lessor inserts such a chattel clause, with the consent of the lessee. The general lease used extensively throughout this Commonwealth and which is furnished in blank by all dealers in law stationery, is a voluminously worded affair, really unnecessarily so.

The lessee agrees to refrain from driving nails or screws in the walls; will replace all glass broken except by fire; will pay the plate glass insurance; pay the expense of removing ashes and garbage; will keep the lawn if there is one, mowed and in good condition; keep the sidewalk cleaned from ice, snow, and other obstructions; will pay for emptying the cesspools and drains, &c. Another proviso, which is led up to by a long preamble, states that if the lessee shall neglect to perform, or observe, any of the foregoing covenants or agreements as contained in these presents, or for any breach thereof, the lessor or his representatives may enter the premises at any time and remove the effects of the lessee—forcibly, if necessary—without being guilty of trespass and without prejudice to any remedies which might otherwise be used, for arrears of rent or preceding breach of covenant.

Store leases are also voluminous documents and filled with a mass of words that to the real estate man are perfectly clear, but to the average layman are puzzling and meaningless. But the lessee of a store will very likely have his lease looked after by an attorney, and, by him, made clear. He takes no chances of signing anything that may tie him hand and foot.

Commercial Leases.

The Walton estate property, at the northwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue and Seventy-fifth Street, has been leased by the Livingston Radiator Manufacturing Company for twenty-one years at $13,500 a year. The corner is covered with a five-story building, fronting 102.2 feet along the avenue and 100 feet on the street.

The Duross Company has leased for Ellen Maloney the first floor at 208 West Fourteenth Street to the Public Service Commission of the First District for use as offices in connection with the construction of the Seventh Avenue subway.

Joseph A. Wasserman has leased for Edward C. Speer to Samuel Levy the moving picture theatre at 819 East 180th Street and the aerodrome adjoining on Southern Boulevard for a term of five years at an aggregate rental of $12,000.

Acreage Deal at Westbury.

A tract of thirty-four acres at Westbury, L. I., has been purchased by the Old Dominion Realty Corporation, recently incorporated at Albany, with George W. Power as President and Richard B. Allen Secretary and Treasurer. The property has a large frontage on Jericho Turnpike and intersects Church, Cross, Rutland, Dartmouth, Jefferson, Rockland, Oxford, and Livingston Streets and Cambridge Avenue. It is fully developed and has all improvements, including gas, water, and electricity. It is within a few minutes' walk from the Westbury station of the Long Island Railroad.

New Building for Newark Park.

H. Van Buren Magonigle has been retained by the Essex County Park Commission to prepare plans for an administration building to be erected in Branch Brook Park, Newark.

REALTY PROGRESS CANNOT BE CHECKED

Owner Needs to Give Personal Attention to His Property for Best Results.

RENTING CONDITIONS GOOD

No Disturbance in Realty Securities, Says Adolph Bloch—Yorkville's Growth.

Realty, as well as other financial interests, have been going through a period of readjustment in view of the unusual conditions suddenly thrust upon them by the European war. During the past week a clearer view of the situation has been possible and the prevailing feeling is one of optimism on the stability of the vital interests of this country.

"We are well equipped for the tasks before us," said Adolph Bloch, a member of the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests. "Our crops are large, our financial condition has been improved by beneficial acts, and we have no entangling alliances.

"Real estate is emerging from a depression caused by the financial crisis, overspeculation, and oppressive legislation and regulation. Its progress cannot now be checked, especially with the booming of our industries, which must inevitably follow through the requirements of the European war. The late panic, while disastrous to many who held their property insecurely, has left conservative owners and mortgagees safer than before. It has taught the expensive lesson against overspeculation, that a man should not own two houses when he can afford only one, and should have a smaller rather than a larger mortgage on his property. New York City real estate conservatively held and managed still affords the best security for the small investor, especially if it receives the personal attention of the owner.

"Confidence in real estate as an investment upon which a fair return may safely be expected depends in no small measure upon the soundness of our laws. We have great economic problems, far-reaching in their effect that have to be solved by our State and municipal officials. It is the duty of every owner of real estate or of its mortgages to interest himself in public questions and to assist and cooperate with the officials honestly and fairly in reaching a correct solution—one just to all that may be interested therein.

"I find renting conditions better than for some time in the past. It is not unusual that in an ownership of ten or twelve houses in different parts of the city there is not a single vacancy. Mortgage money hitherto available has been ample to meet all conservative demands.

"Owners and others interested in real estate are better organized than ever before, with capable leaders and representatives who are doing intelligent, constructive work. As a matter of moral obligation, as well as sound business judgment, it is the best policy to keep houses up to a high standard of repair. It always pays to make improvements voluntarily that add to the safety, health, and comfort of the occupants, thus avoiding the intervention of the municipal departments. The Inspector finding some cause for complaint frequently issues an order unnecessarily drastic and expensive of compliance and involving numerous inspections.

"It has always been my idea that necessary reforms should be instituted by the owners themselves before conditions became such that compulsory legislation be enacted. I find now, more than ever before, that the municipal authorities are willing and even anxious to recognize and consider the owners' side. There is decidedly a turn in the tide.

"I feel particularly optimistic regarding property in the Yorkville section. On Fifth Avenue high-class business has already made its march of progress northward to Fifty-ninth Street, and beyond this is the finest residence street in the world. The vast improvements in the Grand Central Terminal zone have given a great stimulus to business expansion. Madison Avenue, receiving its impetus from Brooks Brothers' projected building at Forty-fourth Street, is bound to be one of the great retail thoroughfares in the city, and other large business firms are negotiating for locations on that avenue.

"Park Avenue, from Forty-second to Ninety-sixth Street, as though touched by a wizard's wand, is already the great apartment house avenue. Lexington Avenue, when the subway is in operation, will throb with business activity. So will Third Avenue. One of the greatest crosstown thoroughfares will be Eighty-sixth Street. Yorkville, so long neglected, will soon come into its own again."

M. Morgenthau, Jr., in discussing the mortgage situation yesterday said:

"It is very difficult to prophesy the probable effects on our mortgage market in the event of a long conflict. There is every evidence that the financial powers here have the situation so well in hand and are co-operating with the Government at Washington so effectively that no great money stringency will develop. As there will be very little demand for money for real estate speculation, and as new building operations have been almost entirely curtailed, the demand for mortgage funds ought to be very light.

"As a matter of fact, we have not had a single case where an owner has come to us in great need for funds."

JOBBERS ARE WELL SUPPLIED FOR FALL

Reports from All Over Country Show Domestic Stocks Full —Import Lines Short.

There is good reason to believe that on certain lines of merchandise the stocks now held by jobbers will go a long way toward aiding the retailers of the country in keeping their stocks near to normal condition, despite the war abroad. This assurance is based on responses to telegrams sent out last week by The Dry Goods Economist to the leading general dry goods jobbers throughout the country. These replies indicate that the jobbers expect to be able to take care of their customers' requirements during the coming season. Some of the replies are given below.

It may be assumed, however, that their resources will be taxed by an increased demand later on, as a result of the scarcity among other sources of supply, and that, because the average jobbing house does not carry a large amount of imported goods, aside from dress goods, kid gloves, trimmings, laces and embroideries, various kinds of notions and small wares, the aid afforded by the jobbers' facilities will not be apparent in all lines of merchandise.

From the Middle West comes the reply of Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, who say, in part: "Our stocks in all lines are in excellent shape to take care of any immediate demands of retailers. Stocks of foreign goods will be extremely depleted after early Fall shipments have been made, and even though ocean shipping should be re-established it will be difficult to obtain foreign merchandise of any kind. Ocean rates have advanced more than 50 per cent. already, and they will probably go higher."

The Ely & Walker Dry Goods Company, St. Louis, report that, except in certain import lines, they expect to be able to supply all Fall and Winter demands, as their stocks are in good shape.

From San Francisco comes the report of the Moore-Watson Dry Goods Company, who say that they are in a position to supply the demands of their Fall trade, as usual. They say their stock is complete for this season, and that business is good.

The Spokane Dry Goods Company, Spokane, Wash., say in reply that jobbing stocks are well supplied to meet normal demands for ninety days, and orders on file with domestic manufacturers are sufficient to meet needs for the balance of the season.

Sanger Brothers, Dallas, Texas, say: "The future will depend largely on the prices realized by producers in this section. Our stocks are complete."

Jobbers' stocks are fairly full in Mobile, according to Bloch & Neuburger of that city. Naval stores and lumber interests are at a standstill. Business generally is backward in the cotton section, they say, and buying is only of a hand-to-mouth character.

From Kansas City comes word that trade is being delayed on account of withheld wheat shipments from near-by territories. The Burnham-Munger Dry Goods Company of that city say also that it is impossible to tell the volume of requirements for Fall, and that the stock generally is low on staples, with some heavy goods carried over in their trade territories.

The Root & McBride Company of Cleveland say that jobbers' stocks are not sufficient to supply the normal Fall and Winter demand, which they think will be greater than usual this year because of the smallness of retail stocks. All foreign supplies are cut off, and manufacturers have no accumulation of merchandise to care for the abnormal demand that is certain to develop.

Philadelphia reports that jobbing stocks are light, and that buying has been conservative. The Young-Smyth-Field Company of that city says there is not much goods in first hands, and that there is nothing like enough foreign goods to meet demands.

In New England present conditions point to a general shortage. Callender, McAuslan & Troup Company of Providence say that their stocks are now complete but not heavy.

In this city the general opinion prevails that the larger jobbers are quite well prepared to take care of any rush that may come, this being as true of the specialty houses as of the general jobbers. In several instances, however, a TIMES reporter learned that stocks of foreign goods will not hold out much longer if the present demand keeps up, and there is no way of replenishing them.

WANT OUR UNDERWEAR.

Cotton Garment Makers Can Sell Their Goods in the Transvaal.

Consul Edwin N. Gonsaulus, writing from Johannesburg, South Africa, says that there is undoubtedly a good market in that territory for women's muslin underwear and children's cotton dresses of American manufacture, provided the articles in question conform to the styles and quality needed for the trade.

There are several ways of establishing connections for the sale of these goods, he says, one being to operate through manufacturers' agents, another by dealing direct with the wholesale houses and jobbers, and still another by having exclusive agents. The usual terms required by manufacturers' agents are a commission of 5 per cent. on all goods shipped to the country and an annual contribution of $125 to $500 to apply to the payment of licenses and traveling expenses. All samples of sale value are debited to agents less a discount of 10 per cent., and are delivered to the respective offices free of charge. Summer goods should be shipped not later than the end of November, and Winter goods should arrive in the market not later than June.

WILL USE NEW MACHINES

Japanese Import Improved Knitting Apparatus for Hosiery.

The Japanese Department of Agriculture and Commerce recently imported new knitting machines for hosiery manufacture, with the object of encouraging this industry in Japan. The Yokohama Textile Fabrics Export Association has applied to the department, through the Kanagawa Kencho, for rent of the machines to the association for building up the industry in Yokohama.

It was explained in this petition that knitted silk goods are more largely produced in Yokohama than in any other place in Japan. The total number of factories engaged in the production of these goods in Tokio, Yokohama, Kioto, and Osaka is seventeen, of which eleven are in Yokohama. Of the yearly production, valued at $298,000 to $348,000, $249,000 worth is produced in Yokohama.

EDUCATION NOTES.

Secretary A. E. Palmer is absent on his vacation.

Assistant City Supt. Andrew W. Edson was Acting City Superintendent in Dr. Maxwell's absence the past week. This week Associate City Supt. John H. Haaren will be in charge, and next week Associate City Supt. John E. Walsh will be Dr. Maxwell's representative.

The Board of Education asked the Municipal Civil Service Commission for authority to employ Miss Susan Dixon as card indexer. Certification of a list of clerk, card indexer has been approved.

The next meeting of the Board of Education will be on Sept. 9. The Executive Committee will hold a meeting on the same day.

Philip F. McManus has been appointed as an inspector of fuel in the Bureau of Supplies for a temporary period.

John A. Biel, inspector of plumbing in the Bureau of Buildings, Queens, has been transferred to the position of Sanitary Inspector in the Department of Education.

The appointment of stenographer and typewriter in the new Bureau of Attendance has been fixed at $1,000 a year.

The commission announces a competitive examination at the N. Y. Custom House for junior civil engineer, men only, on Aug. 19, to fill vacancies in the Interstate Commerce Commission under the act providing for the valuation of the property of common carriers. The salaries will range from $1,200 to $1,500 a year, with necessary expenses when absent from headquarters in the discharge of official duties. Appointments will be principally for duty in the field, but some appointments will be made for duty in Washington, D. C. Competitors will be examined in mathematics, theory and practice of railway surveying, and education, training, and experience. The questions under Subjects 1 and 2 will be based on the work usually covered in the first two years of a reputable civil engineering school, but applicants will not be required to show that they have actually attended an engineering school. An applicant will be required to attain an average percentage of at least 70 on these two subjects combined. It must be shown in connection with his application that each applicant is a person of good moral character and temperate habits. Applican's must have had at least two years' (twenty-four months) practical field experience in civil engineering in railway work. At least six months of this experience must have been in the running of instruments. Applicants must have reached their twenty-first but not their thirty-sixth birthday on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

Swiftest System of Writing Known.
200 Words Minute in 3 Months

LUSK'S Standardized Universal System of Shorthand

Perfected Pitmanic Shorthand

Any stenographer can read it

Used by the swiftest Law Court Reporters and highest paid stenographers in New York. Business showing absolutely nothing about shorthand are taught. The shortest time in which reporters and are able to take letters at 100 words-minute in three weeks, or before students of other systems are able to write even simple sentences in five months. A student is capable of writing twice the speed of a student having attended any shorthand school (not teaching the Lusk System) 6 to 9 months. Students may enter at any time. Stenography this week should enroll now, as classes will be filled early. A three months course qualifies a beginner for a higher salary than the average experienced stenographer receives.

Stenographers practically assured passing Court Reporters' examinations now scheduled for Sept. 15th—140 words-minute; salaries $1,500 to $2,000.

By the Lusk System stenographers can acquire 200 to 300 words-minute heretofore an almost unattainable feat. Specimen shorthand, gratis to stenographers. Mail courses. For full information and details of classes apply to H. LUSK, Reporter and Author of Lusk's System. Phone for appointment, 3255 Broadway, New York.

WHERE COEDUCATION HAS PROVED A SUCCESS FOR TWENTY-THREE YEARS

Men and Women Students Furnish No Unfortunate Complications—Effects on Athletics Good—No Doubt That Marriages Are Sometimes Encouraged, But Social Intermingling Is Easily Controlled.

By John Casper Branner, LL.D., President of Stanford University.

Coeducation has been a part of the working plan of Stanford University from the very beginning. In the deed of grant under which the institution was founded it is enjoined upon the trustees, among other duties, "To afford equal facilities and give equal advantages in the university to both sexes." The idea originated with the founders themselves and is the natural outgrowth of their mutual counsel and co-operation in the work of planning the university. The deed of grant begins: "We, Leland Stanford and Jane Lathrop Stanford, husband and wife, grantors—" and in his address, at the opening of the institution some years later, Mr. Stanford emphasized this joint relation in these words: "I speak for Mrs. Stanford as well as for myself, for she has been my active coadjutor and is co-grantor with me in the endowment and establishment of the university."

Mr. and Mrs. Stanford reserved to themselves during their lifetime the functions and duties of the Board of Trustees, but a board was created at the outset and at its first meeting, on Nov. 14, 1885, the deed of grant was laid before it. In an address to the trustees upon certain features in the university plan, Mr. Stanford spoke as follows concerning the provision for coeducation:

We deem it of the first importance that the education of both sexes shall be equally full and complete, varied only as nature dictates. The rights of one sex, politically or otherwise, are the same as those of the other sex, and this equality of right ought to be recognized.

The opening of the university on Oct. 1, 1891, found both young men and young women represented in the student body. In his address on this occasion Judge James McM. Shafter, President of the Board of Trustees, speaking directly to these students, said:

The founders of this institution have not only declared the general rule of equality, but have given practical application to a long-disputed proposition, the equality of the sexes. This equality of right has received partial recognition in other institutions; here it is declared in its full extent and is to be literally enforced.

All of this preceded the actual work of instruction and in the establishment of the principle of coeducation neither President, Faculty, nor students were consulted. It was solely the act of the founders.

Not a New Experiment.

To the President and Faculty coeducation was not new or debatable. The first President, David Starr Jordan, was a graduate of Cornell University, where coeducation existed, and came directly from the University of Indiana, where it flourished also. Many of the pioneer faculty had been students or teachers in these same institutions. A number of the early students came directly from coeducational institutions, for Stanford did not begin with merely a freshman class; the opening day saw all classes represented, including seniors and postgraduates. The University of California, in common with State institutions generally, enjoyed coeducation, and in the University of the Pacific at San Jose, from which many of the senior students of the first year came, young men and young women were both received. Under these circumstances it is but natural that coeducation was accepted as a matter of course at Stanford University and its wisdom or expediency has never been called in question.

In 1890, Mrs. Stanford, then sole living founder and sole trustee, took action to limit the number of women students in the university. This has sometimes been regarded as a reflection upon or reaction against coeducation. Such is, however, not the fact. Mrs. Stanford's action is set forth in an address to the trustees on May 31, 1899, in the following words:

Whereas the university was founded in memory of our dear son Leland, and bears his name, I direct, under the power given me in the original grant, that the number of women attending the university shall at no time ever exceed five hundred.

In explanation of her action Mrs. Stanford added:

I have watched with interest the large growth in the attendance of female students, and if this growth continues in the future at the same rate, the number of women students will, before long, greatly exceed the number of men, and thereby have it required by the public as a university for females instead of males. This was not my husband's wish, nor is it mine, nor would it have been my son's.

This unequal growth in attendance which Mrs. Stanford thus viewed with alarm is illustrated in the following table:

Year.	Attendance. Men.	Women.
1891-1892	417	142
1892-1893	557	227
1893-1894	578	297
1894-1895	728	372
1895-1896	737	375
1896-1897	801	400
1897-1898	790	458
1898-1899	809	499

Thus, in the first eight years of the university, while the attendance of men had increased by only 65 per cent., that of women had increased by 225 per cent. The absence of courses in medicine and the limitation of work in engineering and law, subjects appealing strongly to men, during the period when the erection of many buildings taxed the financial resources of the institution played an important part in this unequal development, and the opening up of these lines of work, which came later, would doubtless have altered this early tendency to preponderance of women. But Mrs. Stanford saw in it possibility of a change in the ideal of the university, which her husband and she had planned. This was primarily an institution giving a man's education, although open to women, as well. She accordingly took steps to guard against the change. The figure of 500 while intended to place the women in the minority in point of numbers did not aim greatly to emphasize that condition of minority, nor was the fact of limitation thus enforced against women wholly applicable to them. In Mrs. Stanford's mind there was undoubtedly a thought that in due time it would be necessary to limit the men also. In a letter to the President on December 16th of the same year, she said: "Fourteen hundred students for the next few years are sufficient for us to care for," and at the dedication of the library the May following, she said: "I must again reiterate that a very large number of students is not my ambition."

500 Limit Soon Reached.

The attendance at Stanford has reached a total of 1,906 students for 1913-14. It is not possible to know what would have been the normal rates of increase for men and women during this period under unrestricted registration for the latter. The limitation to 500 women did not go into full effect until 1904. By 1900-01 the number of women reached 479; it fell to 456 in 1901-02, but reached the 500 figure in 1902-05. Since that time the number of women has remained stationary at the limit fixed.

The Administration of this limit has necessitated some discrimination against women, such as the barring of special and partial students and all who have not met the full entrance requirements; finally it has greatly curtailed the number of freshmen women. Within the university, however, the equality of privilege and opportunity, which the organic law of the institution requires, has been maintained.

Aside from this feature of limitation the history of co-education at Stanford has been marked by no vicissitudes. In the pioneer days the average age of students was higher and marked by greater maturity. The presence of a matron in charge of the woman's dormitory was the only administrative provision deemed necessary. With the growth of sororities and women's clubs, occupying houses of their own, a system of house mothers or chaperons was established. In due time recognition by the university of certain responsibilities toward its women students led to the creation of the office of dean of women, filled by a woman of maturity and experience to act as adviser to the women in their various relations. This need was not one peculiar to the women, for at the same time the similar office of student adviser of men was established.

In practice the women students at Stanford have not left themselves to be taken for granted. They have maintained throughout their co-ordinate status, having their regular student organizations — musical, dramatic, and athletic. Their tennis and basket ball teams have sustained intercollegiate relations with the University of California and other institutions. They have their own gymnasium, athletic fields and boating facilities.

Women have sought and held representation in the editorial staff of student publication. In the recent movement which is culminating in the erection of two clubhouses at the university, open to alumni, students and Faculty, the women have taken an equally active and successful part, and the Women's Union stands side by side with the Union for the men.

In the matter of student self-government, a thing in actual operation at Stanford University, it was the women who first effected their organization and placed themselves in a position to ask for and receive from the Administrative Committee of the Faculty the privilege of handling their own disciplinary affairs. In the recent craze for new forms of dancing the Women's Governing Board fixed the attitude of the student body in this matter by simply declaring themselves opposed to the objectionable forms.

Women's Scholarship High.

Of the objections usually urged against co-education, it may be said that they have not been found of importance at Stanford. It has been urged that the presence of women tends to lower standards or set new ones with feminine leanings. The record of the Committee on Delinquent Scholarship does not bear this out, and in the three years, 1910-13, while the percentage of failures among men has ranged from 11 to 13 1-2 per cent., that for women has ranged from 2 to 2 1-2 per cent.

It has been thought that the presence in close association in the college community of young men and young women leads to too great emphasis on social affairs. This danger is doubtless one of moment, but with such affairs confined to Friday and Saturday evenings and definitely terminated at 12 o'clock at midnight, it has proved easy to control social conditions.

The objection that the presence of women weakens the athletic spirit of the student body has not been found to have weight at Stanford. Athletic spirit flourishes unabated, and Stanford men have always given a good account of themselves in athletic events.

The fear that co-education leads to matrimony, if it is a legitimate sort of fear, has some basis. It may be admitted that the association of young men and young women in the university community and in the university work, as is the case everywhere, leads to matrimony. Nor is this tendency to be deplored. During the recent commencement season some sixteen Stanford couples announced their engagements. This is a very small percentage in a community of fifteen hundred young people of both sexes and of marriageable age. The Stanford form of coeducation can hardly be accused of having matrimony for its main object. The only wonder is that there are not more such engagements.

On the whole the experience of Stanford University with co-education has been satisfactory. The principle was introduced without doubt or misgiving; it has demonstrated its reasonableness and we may expect it to continue as a fundamental condition at Stanford, "that the education of both sexes shall be equally full and complete."

(Next Sunday's educational article, the second of the series, will be a discussion of girls' schools and colleges. It was written by Miss Virginia C Gildersleeve, Dean of Barnard College.)

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

WHEAT.

The wheat market experienced a sharp break on Saturday, prices declining nearly 3 cents a bushel, which represented a total loss of about 9c a bushel from the high point of the season made on Monday. The weakness was due primarily to continued pressure of cash wheat on the market and to unloading on the part of speculators who had bought in anticipation of a big advance on account of the war in Europe.

In the local cash market new No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at 96c and No. 2 hard at 96½c elevator, domestic; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, new, $1.02.

CORN.

The corn market was active and very feverish, prices declining 1¼c to 2¼c early under active selling by cash interests, which dislodged stop-loss orders, but on the decline there was considerable covering, which resulted in a sharp rally, and final quotations were ¼c to ½c net lower.

In the local cash market No. 2 yellow was quoted 92c, cost, insurance, and freight, to arrive, and Argentine 87@90c as to quality delivered.

OATS.

The fact that Europe is in the market for American oats has given a steadier tone to the market, and after declining early with corn yesterday prices rallied, and at the close were steady at ⅜ to ½c net lower. In the local cash market standard white was quoted at 46½ to 47c; No. 2, 47@47½c; No. 3, 46@46½c; No. 4, 45@45½c; ordinary clipped white, 46@48c, and fancy clipped white, 47½@49c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was inactive, and prices early in the day were slightly lower. But when corn rallied shorts seemed disposed to cover, and closing prices were at the best of the day. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 7,000, estimated for Monday 20,000, and for next week, 110,000; Kansas City received 500 and Omaha 7,700.

The market for cottonseed oil was only moderately active, but prices for the late positions were easier, closing at 2 to 7 points lower, while August was 7 points higher.

COTTON.

Work will be resumed on the lines of transferring contracts to December at the beginning of next week, but it is probable that several days will pass before the effects of this plan can be determined. Meanwhile, few traders will venture any predictions as to when the Exchange may be reopened for business, and for the first time in many years the cotton trade of the world is without any open market and without dependable quotations.

Buyers have apparently supplied their requirements for the time being and are awaiting renewed shipments from Brazil. In the local spot market Rio 7s were advanced 1c to the basis of 9½c.

Stock Exchange Checks Up Orders.

The Stock Exchange authorities expect to be in a position tomorrow to estimate accurately the amount of buying and selling orders which are hanging over the market. To this end the Secretary yesterday sent out a notice calling upon members of the Exchange to send in before noon, Monday, new and corrected lists showing stocks they desire to buy or sell, loan, or borrow. The list is to include orders as of 10 A. M. that day.

$500,000 Gold for Canada.

Gold to the amount of $500,000 was engaged at the Sub-Treasury yesterday for shipment to Canada. The name of the shipper was not announced, but the transaction was supposed to represent the closing out of a contract entered into before a practical embargo on the outflow of gold from this centre was put into operation by the banks.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The Government's Co-operation Gives Encouragement—Banks Report Further Cash Loss.

In the work which is now going on to establish means with which to deal with the many problems created by the war in Europe the financial community is being much encouraged by the wholehearted co-operation which is being given by the officers of the Government. Some of the bankers who attended Friday's conference in Washington and who returned to this city yesterday expressed their belief that the proposed legislation which is intended to facilitate the movement of our foreign commerce will be enacted speedily, and that with the co-operation of the Government in this and in other matters it will be possible before long to set in motion the new machinery of trade which is to supplement the remnant of the old machinery which was so greatly disorganized by the outbreak of war.

While steps are being taken to enlarge our mercantile marine and provide insurance for cargoes, further progress is being made in dealing with the financial features of the reopening of the channels of trade. It is likely that further announcements will be made in the course of the next few days which will indicate the extent to which efforts have been made in the direction. Further information obtained yesterday regarding the suggested flotation here of a French loan brought out the fact that the negotiations now under way have to do not with a permanent bond issue but with the sale here of French Treasury notes. It was pointed out in this connection that such a loan would facilitate trade between this country and France without definitely committing this market to the absorption of a permanent French loan.

The bank statement yesterday showed a further loss in cash sufficient to increase the deficit by over $4,000,000 to above $47,000,000. No doubt the cash loss would have been much greater than it was were it not that most of the demand for currency was provided for through the issuance of additional national bank circulation. A little more gold was taken yesterday for Canada, and it appeared that the exchange situation is being improved by the release of a little gold by this market for shipment to Canada, where it is to be placed to the credit of the Bank of England.

Any comprehensive plan for the settlement of the obligations of this market abroad remains to be worked out, but the point is worth renewed emphasis that the plans upon which the business community and the Government are now co-operating for the establishment of a freer trade movement will go very far toward solving the problem which this foreign indebtedness of ours presents.

BOSTON COPPER GOSSIP.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—After having been closed several weeks on account of the revolution, the mines at Cananea, Mexico, reopened, but only to again suspend operations because of the war in Europe, which has caused a general suspension in the copper industry.

Shattuck-Arizona reports for July a production of 1,848,000 pounds of copper, 24,522 ounces of silver, and 280 ounces of gold.

As a result of the demoralization of shipping the Braden Copper Company will divert its product to the United States, to be treated either at Perth Amboy or at Baltimore. July production was 1,232,000 pounds.

Arizona Commercial has for the last month been shipping a car of high-grade ore daily from the 1,800-foot level. On the twelfth level the ore has been opened up for 700 feet continuously, averaging 6 feet in thickness, and runs 4 per cent. or more copper. The ore on the 1,800-foot level is of 5 per cent. On both levels the drifts east are in high-grade ore.

British Columbia management at last accounts was considering closing down completely. The May production was 528,458 pounds of copper, 2,114 ounces of gold, and 3,337 ounces of silver.

The Copper Range mines go on half time today.

Stockholders of Butte-Milwaukee Copper Company have authorized the sale of the property to the Butte and New York Mining Company.

WILL MAKE FIGHT FOR EXPORT TRADE

Sellers of Cotton Goods Are Putting In Many Hours Studying Foreign Outlook.

American manufacturers and exporters of cotton goods are planning an aggressive campaign to capture the markets of the world, which, up to this time, have been supplied in large measure by the countries now at war. The almost limitless opportunities for the expansion of this trade have been recognized during the last week, and, while no step toward concerted action by those interested has been taken, the cotton men have settled down to a thorough study of the probable curtailment of European production as the result of the conflict now raging, as well as to a careful examination of the markets for American goods in Central and South America, Turkey, Egypt, and Asia.

George W. Doonan, agent in charge of the local branch of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in the Custom House, said yesterday that his office had been filled in the last week with manufacturers and exporters seeking information regarding foreign trade. A feature of the inquiries was the quest for detailed statistics relating to the volume of business transacted up to this time by Great Britain, Germany, France, Austria, Belgium, and Italy in the markets referred to above. As the local branch is equipped only with office copies of many of the Government publications dealing with the foreign markets, it has been necessary for representatives to spend many hours copying the desired data. Mr. Doonan said yesterday that he was corresponding with headquarters in Washington with a view to having the various publications, now sold exclusively in Washington by the Superintendent of Public Documents, sent here, so that the merchants interested may avoid the bother of having to send small sums through the mails. The new plan, which it is hoped may be in operation this week, will also save the time now consumed in writing to Washington and awaiting the arrival of the reports wanted.

The enthusiasm of cotton manufacturers to enter the foreign markets, as a result of the complications in Europe, is not dampened by the present paralysis of ocean transportation or the threatened shortage of dyestuffs. The best opinion in trade circles is that the seas will be safe for merchantmen of England, France, and the neutral nations within a short time. It is also believed that a way will be found to ship goods under our own flag.

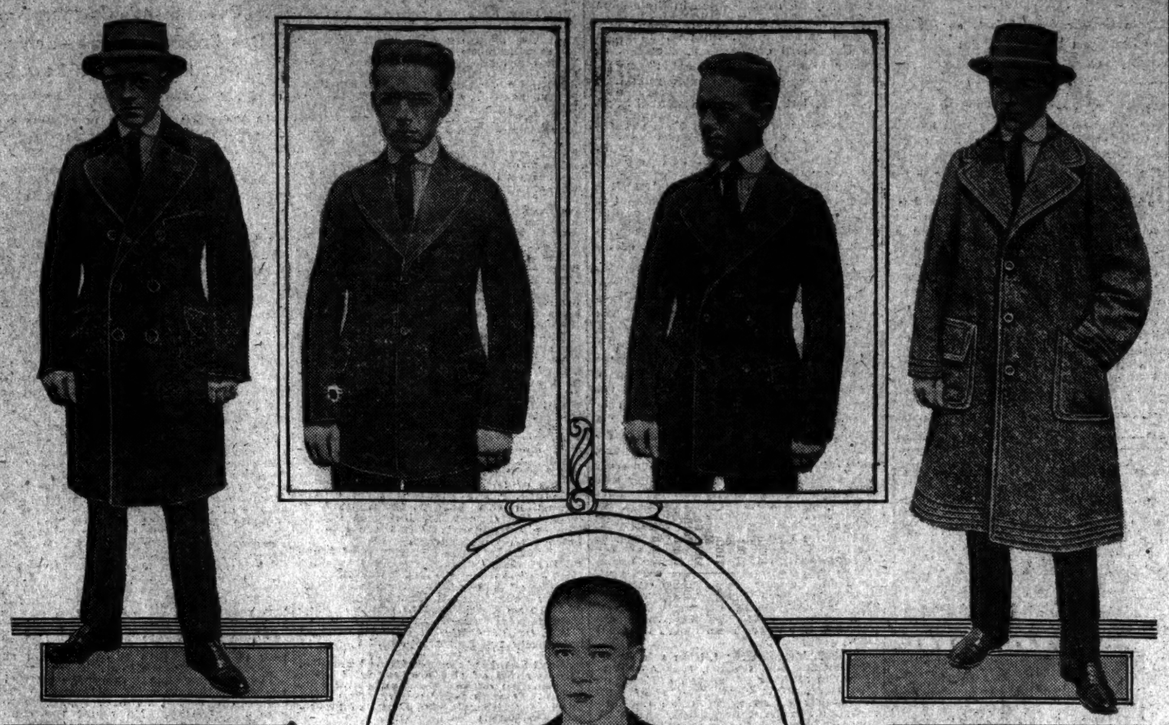
The first move of the domestic producers has been to study carefully the former consumption of cotton by the chief belligerent countries, their home consumption of manufactured cottons, and their exports. It is taken for granted by those interested in the present export movement that the exports of European fabrics will be seriously restricted as long as the war continues and that the effects on trade will be felt for a considerable period in case hostilities are protracted. Even a short war, it is argued here, will afford the American exporter a first-rate chance to get a footing or to strengthen his position in the primary export fabric markets.

Unless Italy becomes involved in the war that country will continue to remain a close competitor of the American exporter in certain markets. It is regarded here as certain, however, that the European spindles generally will consume at least 3,000,000 bales less than normal. The larger part of the goods that may be manufactured will be for home consumption for some months, unless a part of the reduced output of the British mills finds an oversea market.

With the European mills in the condition indicated, the question arises, What part of the deficit in the world's supply of cotton goods can be furnished by the mills of the United States and Canada? In this connection, the latest information is that the markets of the Near East, China, and South America are none too well supplied with goods. It was said yesterday that it is just such a situation as this that is found to facilitate the export of American-made fabrics to markets largely dominated up to this time by England, Germany, France, and Italy.

Estimates made yesterday showed that American mills could consume 7,000,000 bales of cotton annually if outlets abroad are found for the manufactured products. After ocean transportation, the chief impediment to getting the fabrics abroad is the threatened dyestuffs famine, but if this danger can be alleviated cloth factors believe that nothing will stand in the way of a vastly increased business abroad, which, once gained, may be held against all comers in the future.

SOME OF THE NEW TOUCHES TO FALL GARMENTS FOR MEN



THERE was a time when a man could wear his last year's suit without feeling conscious of the fact, but that was some time ago. In the large cities and progressive towns of this country the element of style in men's wear is playing an increasingly important part. While fashions for the male portion of the population have yet to acquire the vacility of those that govern in the women's world, it is not at all surprising nowadays to find that even during one season there may happen several changes of a quiet sort in men's attire.

The garments illustrated above are typical examples of what will be worn this Fall by men of fashion. The overcoat on the left is a three-button, double-breasted overcoat, two to button, form fitting, and "knee long." The collar is of velvet. The overcoat on the right is a sport and style coat combined. It is designed along English lines, and has the kimono type of sleeve. This garment measures ninety inches around the bottom.

The coat illustrated on the right is a double-breasted London model, with three buttons, two to button, and has the soft rolling front with step vent. The length is 30½ inches. To the left of this is shown a soft-front coat of the two-button type, in which the step vent is also used. With this coat comes a five-button waistcoat with lapels.

In the lower cut an idea is gained of the coming season's novelty, the double-breasted waistcoat. The triangular position of the buttons is a noticeable touch. All of the models shown are from Rosenberg Bros. & Co., Rochester, N. Y., whose selling office in this city is at 200 Fifth Avenue.

SEES GOOD BUSINESS HERE.

C. W. Hand Not Disturbed by Stoppage of Typewriter Exports.

Charles W. Hand, Vice President of the Underwood Typewriter Company, explained yesterday why the Underwood Company is going ahead with the manufacture of machines in the face of the European war and the closing of export markets.

"The business situation brought about by the war," said Mr. Hand, "is serious enough, of course, but the American people should not allow themselves to become unduly alarmed. We are keeping our factory at Hartford running because we find plenty of business right in this country. We do a large export business, which, as in the case of our American competitors, has been brought to a standstill by the war, and when conditions over there change for the better we shall resume the selling of machines. In the meantime the stoppage of exports will make it possible for us to fill our home orders promptly. It is to be hoped that the conflict across the water will not adversely affect business interests in Canada, as the American typewriter finds a warm welcome in the Dominion under normal conditions. Shipping is bound to be resumed in considerable part soon. If the Europeans can't use machines just now, a good market ought to open up in South America.

Removes Countervailing Duty.

The Treasury Department has issued an order to Collectors and other officials of the Customs advising them that sugar produced in the Netherlands is no longer subject to a countervailing duty when brought into this country. The department recently received assurances from the Dutch Government that the bounty on exportation of the commodity from Holland had been abolished. The American Government accordingly has rescinded its order of Dec. 2, 1903, directing the levying of countervailing duty on such sugar.

War Hampers Raw Silk Trade.

The raw silk business is still very quiet, owing to the war in Europe, and it is very hard to bring in silks against letters of credit. While the nominal quotations in Yokohama for future deliveries are quite attractive, according to A. P. Villa & Bros., the cost of war risk insurance makes the price much higher than the first cost. For spot silk, which is very scarce, there is quite a demand, and manufacturers are willing to pay very high prices for it.

PRINTCLOTH SALES BETTER.

Fall River Mills Disposed of 75,000 Pieces Last Week.

Special to The New York Times.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 15.—The print cloth market has shown an improvement in trading this week, but conditions are still far from normal. The estimated sales for the week are 75,000 pieces, a little more than twice the total for the week previous. There was a fairly active inquiry for goods, but mills, generally speaking, opposed granting concessions to prospective buyers. Standard goods are relatively quiet, so far as actual sales are concerned, but were manufacturers disposed to agree to prices suggested by some buyers business would have been quite large.

The principal demand came from manufacturers of cloth bags throughout the country, and the mills which make such constructions as 40 and 44 inch goods, together with narrower widths, were in a position to take on this business. Manufacturers contend that prices are as low as they will go, and it is pointed out that some quotations give no margin of profit at all.

Cotton brokers who can furnish desirable grades for immediate delivery are doing a good business, although, with the closing of the New York Cotton Exchange, there can be no hedging. Cotton yarns are inactive. Quotations:

ROAD MEN TO HAVE OUTING.

Associated Traveling Salesmen Will Hold Forth at Long Branch.

The second annual outing, clambake and field day of the Associated Traveling Salesmen of New York will be held next Saturday at Fort-au-Peck, N. J. An "A. T. S. Special" will leave the Pennsylvania Station at 9:30 A. M., rain or shine, according to the present plans.

The field events include races of all descriptions. A baseball game is scheduled to take place between the married and the single members, and special dancing contests will be held also. The members will be further entertained during the afternoon and evening by professional talent.

Narrow Toes May Hurt Business.

The vogue for narrow, receding toes in women's shoes for Fall is apt to give retailers in the smaller towns and cities considerable trouble this year, according to a local authority on shoe matters, because the feet of the women of these places are not adapted to these effects. The narrow, trim feet of the women of the larger centres of population, which make it possible to wear narrow shoes with comfort, are said to be almost altogether missing in the smaller cities. As a result, a number of retail exchanges and complaints to wholesalers and manufacturers is looked for.

Why Buyers Hold Off.

The reason why there has not been even a greater rush to get merchandise at this time, according to a men's-wear manufacturer, is that sellers have been accustomed in the past to cry "wolf" when there was no reason for it. Both retailer and wholesaler have ignored this cry in the past, so have found little difficulty in getting the merchandise they needed when they wanted it. The present danger is said to be that the serious condition brought about by the war will not fully be realized by many buyers until it is too late.

BUSINESS NOTES.

A small sale of cotton duck for war purposes was reported made to one of the belligerent countries yesterday. While no details were given out concerning this sale, it is understood that the value of the goods was in the neighborood of $10,000 to $15,000.

The Underwood Typewriter Company is to act as host here this week to its staff of branch managers, who will make their headquarters at the Hotel McAlpin. In the business meetings that will occur the out-of-town managers will be urged to push the domestic sales end of the business harder than usual in view of the bottom having dropped out of the export trade in typewriters.

War Results in Record Number of Changes.

For the second time in two weeks a record number of changes was shown in Dun's list of wholesale commodity prices, for which the European war was directly responsible. The trend of prices was sharply upward in a number of lines, 116 of the 128 changes shown for the week being advances. In the previous week 105 fluctuations were recorded, and of these 84 were upward.

The bulk of the week's changes were again shown in foodstuffs and in drugs, chemicals, and oils, about 70 per cent. of all the changes having occurred in these markets. The feature of the whole list was the remarkable upturn of prices on drugs, chemicals, and oils. Forty-five advances occurred there against two declines. Many of the items that were quoted higher in the previous week again advanced sharply. Opium, in jobbing lots, advanced to $9 a pound, compared with $5.70 a pound a year ago at this time. The only declines shown were in the oil market, where cottonseed oil and crude petroleum fell off.

In the foodstuff end there were 33 advances and 5 declines. All of the dairy products were higher, the better grades of butter, cheese, and eggs being especially firm because of the moderate supplies. Prices were advanced on all the quoted grades of flour, and the grain markets were very strong. Wheat, corn, oats, barley, and rye all showed substantial advances. Notable strength was shown in live meats in the Chicago provision market, where all of the major provisions were quoted higher than in the previous week. Bacon was again held higher at this city.

Coffee declined, but the cheaper grades of Japan tea moved upward. Spices were firm and higher, and sugar also moved up. The rise in standard granulated sugar was especially sharp, and it is now quoted at $7.50 a hundred pounds, against $4.70 a year ago at this time. While fresh fruits were none too firm, there was a good upward movement in the prices of dried fruit. Vegetables showed few signs of strength.

The upturn of prices on iron and steel products became more pronounced during the week, a number of advances being asked on the crude and finished materials. In all there were fifteen advances and only one decline, which was on furnace coke. The minor metals, with the exception of copper, were very strong, and antimony and tin touched record levels. Platinum advanced to $50 an ounce. Hides and leathers together showed twelve upward revisions and no declines. Crude rubber, which was very scarce here, again advanced, this time to $1.15 a pound for the best Para grade. Burlaps again moved upward, but jute remained unchanged at the recent advance. Hemp was higher. Desirable spot stocks of raw silk were very high. Turpentine declined.

Raw wool was steady at the price levels reached in the recent advance, but in the woolen and worsted fabrics field price advances were numerous. This applied as much to domestic as to imported fabrics. Several of the former, both in men's and women's wear, were advanced up to 5 cents a yard. In rare instances these advances were exceeded, and one well-known dress fabric was put up for the second time in a few days.

The raw cotton situation was more settled than in the previous week, which resulted in a better idea of what cloth values should be. This, in turn, resulted in better trading in several lines. Gray goods showed improvement, due principally to the unusual activities of the bag manufacturers in the absence of burlaps and to the fear of converters that if they did not hurry they would not get their goods through the hands of the finishers before the dyestuffs gave out. Sales of sheetings for bag purposes are said to have totaled between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 yards in the last ten days. Fine cottons moved much better, especially lawns. Colored cottons met no selling pressure because of the probability of higher prices, as the dyestuff supply diminishes. Brown and bleached cottons showed little life.
